

GAMBLING IS ATTACKED BY BIEDERWOLF

"Lima Isn't So Very Bad," Evangelist Asserts, In Enumeration Of "The Sins of This City" In His Sermon At the Tabernacle

"Any woman in Lima who plays cards for money" is as insignificant and low down as the very lowest gambler in the universe," Dr. Biederwolf declared at the tabernacle Thursday night in his sermon on "The Sins of Lima."

"A law of this state holds that gambling is a crime and to violate this law the offender makes himself or herself liable to a fine or imprisonment, or both. A minister, in looking for absent members of his congregation some Sunday morning might do well to make an investigation at the city jail," he added.

The tabernacle was filled again for the night service. Nearly 7,000 men and women were assembled to hear Biederwolf's message. Lima's delegations present included representatives from The Solar Refining Co., Garford Motor Truck Co., Lubetzky Bros., cigar factory, and the Lodge of Pythian Sisters. Outside delegations were here from Elida, Cridersville, Harrod, Westminster, Lafayette and Kemp.

"The meetings are growing, the religious spirit is spreading and I am very well satisfied with the work so far," Dr. Biederwolf said. Offerings Thursday amounted to $582.25. In the afternoon $18.19 was given and the evening collection totaled $544.07.

LIMA NOT VERY BAD

"For two reasons, I hate to preach of 'The Sins of Lima,' Biederwolf said. 'I have been too busy to look around much of late. I am glad to say that I cannot find that Lima is a very bad city, so will take for my text 'Citizens of No Mean City.'"

"There are some people who make much out of nothing; people who try to make as much scandal as they can. Also, there are people like the man who bought his tonic from the bald headed barber. They are unable to see what sin is going on."

"Paul was no Pussyfoot," the evangelist declared, "and neither am I. There are great sins in Lima the same as any other city and even tho it will hit a lot of you I am going to preach on those sins."

Dr. Biederwolf said Lima should be proud of her city officials. "The mayor, the city manager and the chief of police are great factors in making Lima cleaner and better than most cities. If the people co-operate with the men who are at the head of affairs now, there are no limits to the good that can be done."

The Bible says we shall work six days a week and rest the seventh. How about the lazy dog that does not work on the six days that the Lord has given him to work in? He is just as much a sinner as the man who breaks the Sabbath."

Dr. Biederwolf said he believes everyone should own an automobile if they can afford one, but he does not approve of the car owner driving away on Sunday morning for an all day outing and never set foot inside the church. "Many church members do that very thing. They take their religion lightly," he asserted.

GAMBLING PREVALENT

"Gambling has a great hold on Lima. Many a lawless gambler played his first game of cards for a prize in a society parlor. Lima has gone card crazy," Biederwolf exclaimed. "Afternoon and afternoon is spent at the card table. The society women of this town can't even let their deck of cards rest on the Sabbath day but must have their little game on Sunday afternoon."

"More girls are losing their virtue and self respect than ever before in the history of the world. The boys are shiftless, lazy, low-minded bunch. The United States is going at a pace that is much too fast. Something must be done. If not, our country will pay the price and fall as did Rome of long ago."

"There is a cause for all this waywardness. That cause can be divided into two classes and both classes start in the American home that is striving so hard to keep pace with society."

"Why do mothers let their daughters dress in the un-Godly, indecent way they do? Women claim that men do not have the respect for them that men had for women in the olden days. How can they when the women of today act so mannish? The men have to go to hell for looking, they will have a lot of company with those who furnished the show. Adam and Eve did not know they were naked until they ate the apple."

"The modern dance, which every young girl thinks she must know to be in high society, is very unclean and suggestive."

"If the mothers of this country would put a stop to the way their daughters are dressing and dancing, much could be accomplished toward putting the country on a higher level."

Dr. Biederwolf said the young man is much easier influenced for wrong than the young woman. "He needs the help of her more than she needs the help of him. He urged that the girls of Lima do their part and help raise the moral standards of our country."

CHOIR INTEREST GROWS

Great interest is being shown in the choir work. Members of Choir No. 1 were asked to check in Thursday night. This practice will be followed every night with both choirs. John Ross Reed, musical director, desires check on everyone singing in the choirs. Any member who does not report or send an excuse for three successive nights will forfeit his place and some one who can come will be given the seat he wanted. Reed has a long waiting list.

SLAYER OF HUSBAND FREED

"DETROIT PLAN" IS APPROVED

SELF DEFENSE IS WIVES' PLEA

ON LAW BOARD

JOHN BASSETT MOORE
WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — John Bassett Moore has been appointed American representative on the international commission of jurists to consider changes in the rules of international law.

NEW PUNISHMENT FOR SPEEDERS

Compel Them to Look Upon Victims of Recklessness

JURISTS GIVE JUDGMENT

Will Save Many Lives, Judge Jackson Believes

"The Detroit plan" of punishment for speeders and reckless drivers, by making them look at maimed children and at bodies of automobile victims, met with hearty endorsement Friday by Judge Emmett J. Jackson of the Lima criminal court and by other officials in many of the representative cities of the country.

"The plan is an excellent one," Judge Jackson said, "but I believe that better results could be obtained and fatalities prevented by compelling motorists arrested for speeding or reckless driving to look upon results of such infraction of the law by others, if only pictures are obtainable."

"Impressing upon them before they are dismissed, the danger they are providing for others by careless or criminally reckless handling of motor vehicles and by speeding, will have a tendency to provide a more effective lesson."

JUDGE JACKSON'S PLAN

"Why wait until someone is killed?" Judge Jackson said. "Impress the lesson before a life is snuffed out. Any other plan is similar to locking the garage after the auto is stolen. I am in favor of jailing the reckless speeder."

The idea of inflicting this mental torture, originated by Judge Charles L. Bartlett, of Detroit, will soon be put into effect in other communities where the speed menace has become a grave problem, according to statements gathered by the United Press. It is also suggested that similar penalties be inflicted on parents who let their children wander in the streets. Only two judges asked for opinions, declared against this method.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. — Chief of Police W. J. Clark, said Bartlett's idea was excellent and the Oklahoma City speeders would be subjected to similar punishment.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Sergeant A. J. Murray, head of the police traffic department, said Judge Bartlett did the right thing. "Murray believes many parents should be punished similarly for letting children run carelessly about the streets."

WASHINGTON — Municipal Court Judge Robert E. Mattingly: "An excellent idea. Much better than fining."

BOSTON — "The sight of crippled and maimed children undoubtedly would run a salutary effect on reckless automobile drivers," said Frank A. Goodwin, state registrar of motor vehicles.

DENVER — Police Judge Rice said: "I believe it would do good for those who see the injured children and I don't believe they would be arrested again for violation of traffic rules."

PORTLAND, Ore. — "That's a mighty good plan. Take them to the morgue, too," said Municipal Judge E. K. Wall. "Reckless drivers ought to see their own victims and the victims of other drivers like themselves."

PHILADELPHIA — Judge Willis J. Martin said he couldn't see the advantage of the Detroit mental torment plan unless the prisoners are very sentimental.

NEW YORK — "I am in favor of severe penalties for speeders and others who run down people recklessly in the streets," said Judge John F. McIntyre, of General Sessions.

WILKESBARRE, Pa. — Magistrate M. G. Rudy called the Detroit plan "nonsense," adding: "I haven't any conscience or any brains. Judges ought to put them in jail."

POMERENE'S SENATORIAL CAMPAIGN COST $6,025

WASHINGTON — Senator Pomereene, Democrat, Okla., filed with the clerk of the senate today contributions of $4,250 and expenditures of $6,025, while his victorious opponent, Representative Fess, Republican, reported contributions of $4,600 and expenditures of $4,814.

Among the contributors to Senator Pomereene's campaign fund were former Associate Justice Clark of the supreme court $200, H. F. Wolfe of Columbus $500 and E. H. Moore, Youngstown, campaign manager for former Governor Cox prior to the 1920 convention $100. Republican organizations were the principal contributors named by Senator-elect Fess while John E. Galvin gave $500 and Victor Heintz $100. Senator Kellough, Republican, Minnesota, defeated by Dr. Henrik Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite, reported expenditures of $1,430 and no contributions.

WHO'S SENATOR?

SENATOR W. H. FELTON, ABOVE, AND W. F. GEORGE.

Two claim seat in senate

Georgia Woman Appointed But Man is Elected

ATLANTA, Ga. — (Associated Press) — Mrs. W. H. Felton and Walter F. George, senator-elect from Georgia, will confer here today on the question of allowing Mrs. Felton to take oath of office as United States senator for one or more days, a privilege which has been requested by thousands of women throughout the nation.

After the death of Senator Thomas E. Watson, Governor Thomas W. Hardwick appointed Mrs. Felton senator until a successor to Senator Watson could be selected by Georgia voters. On November 7, Mr. George, Democratic nominee, was elected to fill the unexpired term and according to Governor Hardwick, after that election Mrs. Felton has no official right to the office.

Mr. George arrived here yesterday to meet Mrs. Felton, who will come here today from her home in Cartersville. He said he sanctioned the movement to have Mrs. Felton officially seated in the senate and would like to see the distinction of being the first woman in the country to serve in the senate conferred upon the 58-year-old Georgian. He added, however, that the seating of Mrs. Felton is of course, a matter with the senate, since the senate is the exclusive judge of the eligibility of its members.

Governor Hardwick is expected to arrive here tomorrow from New York to clear up certain technicalities regarding the issuance of a commission to Mr. George.

W. G. SHARP DIES AT ELYRIA

Former Ambassador to France Ill Several Months

APPOINTED ENVOY BY WILSON

Served Three Terms in Congress — Prominent in Business

ELYRIA — (Associated Press) — William Graves Sharp, former ambassador to France, died at his home here shortly before noon today. Mr. Sharp had been ill for several days. Mr. Sharp who was 63, spent several months in Europe last summer in the interest of his health, and according to friends has not been very well since.

All of the five Sharp children were summoned to his bedside late yesterday when his condition became serious.

Mr. Sharp was American ambassador to France, five years, serving in Paris during the world war. He resigned his post about a year after the armistice was signed.

Sharp's condition became worse this morning and a Cleveland specialist was summoned for consultation by the attending physicians. Death came an hour later, however.

Sharp was born at Mount Gilead, Ohio. His parents were George and Mahala Graves Sharp. His childhood was spent in Mt. Gilead.

When he became of school age Sharp moved to Elyria with his grandparents and entered the public schools here. After he was graduated from high school he decided to take up law and entered the University of Michigan. In 1884 he was graduated from the law department of that institution and was admitted to the bar of Ohio.

HIS FIRST OFFICE

After practicing law in Elyria three years, Mr. Sharp embarked upon his political career. His first office was prosecuting attorney of Lorain co.

When his term expired he entered upon a long period of private life. It was at this time that he began building up one of the largest iron ore businesses in the country. For twenty years he personally oversaw the manufacture of pig iron and as the business progressed he prospered.

In 1922, he became actively interested in politics. That year he was presidential elector on the Democratic ticket. In 1900 he was the nominee of the Democratic party for congress in this district and in 1904, he was delegate to the national Democratic convention at St. Louis.

Then followed his service in congress to which he was elected for three consecutive terms, being one of the few Democrats to represent this district. He was a member of the sixty-first, sixty-second and sixty-third sessions, 1909 to 1915.

APPOINTED BY WILSON

His next political post was ambassador to France, an appointment by President Wilson in 1914. He was the first American ambassador to become dean of the diplomatic corps in Paris. His services as ambassador extended to April, 1919, covering the entire war period.

In 1895 Mr. Sharp was married to Miss Hallie M. Clough of Elyria. Five children were born, all of whom were at his bedside when death came. They are Margaret, Effie, George, William Graves, Jr., and Baxter.

Dr. E. P. Clements, Mr. Sharp's attending physician, announced that the immediate cause of death was high blood pressure.

Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

HUSBAND OF AMERICAN HEIRESS IS REFUSED PASSPORT TO U. S.

BUDAPEST — Count Anton Sigray, who married the American heiress Harriet Daly, daughter of the late Marcus Daly, one of America's copper kings, has been refused a passport to the United States by the Hungarian police.

The count made a formal protest to the national assembly against the refusal, declaring that his rights of immunity, a deputy were being violated by the interference of the police "who are curtailing my freedom as guaranteed by the constitution." The case has been referred to the committee on immunity of the house, which will decide whether the refusal of the passport was justified.

The police assert that their decision to decline to grant the passport was based on Count Sigray's alleged complicity in the last attempt of former King Charles to regain his throne. After Sigray was arrested he was released in bail of 1,000,000 kronen pending trial. An American money his bail bond amounts to about $400.

STUDENT KILLED

NEW YORK — William D. Spandow, student, was instantly killed and several of his classmates injured today by an explosion in the chemical laboratory of Havemeyer Hall, Columbia University. The fire was brought under control after a half hour and did not reach the main building.

West Virginia Judge Shot to Death in Home

ACCUSED WOMAN CONFESSES

Story of Mistreatment Believed by Jury

BECKLEY, W. Va. — (Associated Press) — Mrs. Alice Anderson, freed from a charge of murder was receiving congratulations today on the verdict which gave her liberty last night. The jury which had listened to her story of years of mistreatment by her husband until his death, deliberated only half an hour before announcing its decision.

The trial moved quickly from the time the drawing of the jury began late Tuesday afternoon.

Only half a day was required for the state's testimony and all evidence was completed yesterday afternoon. The case was put in the hands of the jury about 11:30 last night.

NO EYEWITNESSES

There were no eyewitnesses to the shooting of Judge John M. Anderson on the night of July 20, but the first people who rushed into the house at the sound of shots said Mrs. Anderson admitted she had fired them.

Expectations that she would plead self-defense were borne out at the trial and this plea convinced a jury which was one of the unique features of the trial in that it included four negroes among its members.

YOUTH HELD FOR GRAND LARCENY

Confesses to Having Stolen From Lima Benefactors

"Don't bite the hand that's feeding you."

The warning voiced by a song now almost forgotten, seems to have been unknown to Lewis Neuman, 21, 609 N. Elizabeth-st.

Friday he is languishing in city jail awaiting arraignment on charge of grand larceny preferred by his benefactors, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Sutter.

Neuman confessed to police that he took a pocketbook containing $32.50 from Sutter's clothes while the man was bathing and $4.50 from a child's bank in the Sutter home. That was Sunday.

Friday, he was seen by Mrs. Sutter on N. Main-st. Police were called and Neuman was placed under arrest.

Neuman, police say, was taken into the Sutter home where the family took pity on him and provided him with board and room until he could find work. The lad said he had come to Lima from North Dakota, after working for a time at Columbus Grove.

Instead of showing appreciation of the kindness conferred upon him, Neuman is charged with having taken advantage of his benefactors.

He will be arraigned probably Friday afternoon.

WOMAN SAVED BY HER SMILES

Men Jurors Won Over by Mrs. Clara Phillips

LOS ANGELES — (Associated Press) — Men members of the jury found Mrs. Clara Phillips guilty of second degree murder for beating Mrs. Alberta Tremaine Meadows to death with a hammer, were quoted today as admitting Mrs. Phillips' smiles saved her from the gallows. Had it not been for the defendant's smile, she probably would have been convicted of first degree murder, without a recommendation for clemency, thus making death the only penalty, they said.

Mrs. Phillips seemed to study them one at a time and flash frequent smiles at them while she turned an apparently stoical back to the spectators crowded in the court room, they were quoted.

"And she has the most appealing smile I ever saw," was the way one juror was quoted.

But the women jurors were not affected by it. It was stated, as all three favored a verdict which would have sent Mrs. Phillips to the gallows. They found a compromise was necessary to avoid a disagreement.

While the defense planned to ask a new trial next Monday, the time set for passing sentence, which may be any period of years from ten to life, the state counsel said they had no comment to make on the verdict.

Would Regulate Marriages to Put Check on Maladies

(BY CHARLES R. LYNNIC)
CHICAGO.—(United Press).—The clergy of Illinois will be subject of suits for damage if they perform marriages of persons suffering from social diseases, if a bill proposed by Dr. H. E. Rundesen, Chicago Health Commissioner, is approved by the next Illinois legislature.

"We will not only make a state law requiring a certificate of a reputable physician accompany each marriage license, but we will make it a civil offense for a minister to marry persons who are not free from these dread diseases," Dr. Rundesen said.

During the last year the head of the Chicago health department has gained a nationwide reputation for his forceful handling of the vice situation.

"Bring it out in the open, open," can't fight anything in the dark," Bundesen declared, outlining his plan for "fighting social diseases."

"These malads affect more than a quarter of a million people right here in Chicago."

"Publicity, propaganda and education that is what we need to wipe out this scourge which et... lives yearly than tuberculosis ever did."

"Suppose we treated the American child with as much secrecy as we do our sex problem. If we did, we wouldn't have much respect for the flag."

"But we don't. We bring the flag out and wave it... a... it and explain what it stands for. We give it publicity and we get patriotism."

"Young men and young women should be given just the same regard for their bodies as we try for their flag."

"Wouldn't it be an ideal country in which every man, woman and child understood what a wonderful thing their bodies were and revered them and held them clean from temptation."

"A country with citizens like that would dominate the world."

"You're saying each child has material for crying, but answer their questions. Answer them truthfully and use the right terms. Don't try to throw a cloak of pretty names around these instructions."

"Your child will gain confidence in you. When later he hears things which he picks up on the streets he will come to you with all of his sex problems."

"The press has launched a bitter fight to solve the social problem in Chicago. He has used big newspaperads not only on houses of ill fame but on private dwellings, in mates of which refused medical attention for sexual diseases.

"They all promise to take the treatment after the placards have been up a few hours," he said.

Bundeen appealed for and received the support of the Chicago clergy in his fight for a medical certificate with every marriage license.

He heartily arraigned several ministers who did not agree with him.

"One of them said that such a demand would result in unmarried men and women living together. Does he mean to say that members of his church would go and live together if they were refused a license to wed because of a sexual disease?"

"This fight of ours is going to give social disease the knock-out blow, just as the publicity and educational campaign against tuberculosis cut the death rate from that disease more than 60 per cent," the doctor said.

"A score of years ago the death rate for tuberculosis was 187 in every 100,000. Today the death rate from the white plague is less than 70 per 100,000.

"We can do the same thing with social disease. But we must come out in the open and face the issue squarely.

"The trouble is that parents refuse to discuss sex with their children."

"One clinic in Chicago last month treated more than 20,000 cases of social disease." Was the way the health commissioner summed up the situation.

Even the dog likes to be really clean and sweet once—use Blue Devil on him.

The following characteristic statement was made, recently, by M. B. Nowlon 159 Buchel Ave., Akron, Ohio, a long-time employee of the Good-year Rubber Co.

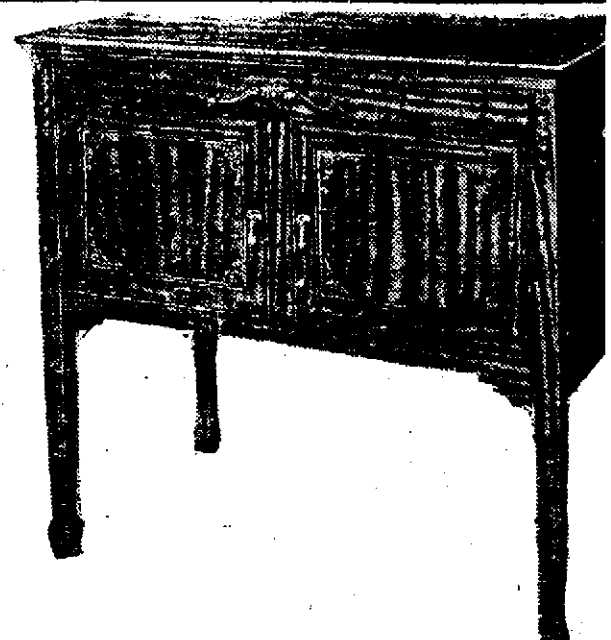

"What it takes to build a man up to good health Tanlac certainly has it. Before I took the medicine I was all run down, like an old worn-out clock, and just could not get right. My stomach just wouldn't work at all, and I suffered from gas, pains, bloating and nausea so bad I dreaded to eat anything. I got awfully thin and nervous, couldn't sleep worth a cent, and got up mornings with a terrible headache and so dizzy I could hardly stoop over to put my shoes on."

"After a few weeks use of Tanlac I haven't an ache or a pain. In fact, I couldn't feel better if I wanted to. I can work all day and never seem to tire any more. Tanlac is certainly great."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. adv

BANKS ROOT FOR DIXIE TOWNS

Forbes Declares Southerners Are Enthusiastic Boosters

UNUSUAL ACTIVITY NOTED

Enterprising Spirit is Likened to That of West

(BY C. FORBES)
NEW YORK.—Today let us turn our eyes southward.

The latest mail has brought two interesting communications illustrating the progressive spirit of the south of today.

Isn't it true that many of us who know little or nothing about the south still look upon that vast empire as backward, unenterprising, unenergetic, non-industrial? Don't we still harbor the notion that the majority of southerners are easy-going, not to say lazy?

However much truth there may have been in such ideas a generation ago there is little truth in them today. There is coming into being a new south as there has been coming into being a new west.

Those of us who live in the east often comment upon the enthusiasm of Californians and others in rooting for their home state and their home town.

My experience is that the business men and bankers of most southern states are becoming just as enthusiastic rooters for their own state and their own town. Since I started journeying into many western and southern states, I have been deluged with invitations from all parts of the south to come down and give the people there a chance to show what they have and what they are. (Incidentally, I hope to do so next year.)

Here is a typical example of the spirit now animating the south; the extract is from a letter received from J. G. Anderson, head of the Anderson Motor Company, of Rock Hill, South Carolina:

"When you get ready to pay us a visit we will see that you have the opportunity of meeting a lot of our business men. We want to call your special attention to the tremendous industrial development that has been going on in the south for many years. You will be amazed at what we have done here when you come and take a look at it."

"The people of the north and west have an idea that the south is 'slow' and that we are more or less backward. Some of them, when they take a run down to Florida during the winter, call us 'natives,' just as we would refer to Mexicans or some people half-civilized."

"The north will wake up some of these days and open its eyes to the fact that the south has run clean ahead of it. The forward-looking men in the north who can visualize what will happen down here within the next twenty-five years will vastly benefit themselves."

"One of the speakers at the American Bankers' Association convention in New York, not a southerner, said among other things: 'The south is becoming one of the great industrial camps in the Union—an industrial destined to become bigger than the north, vastly bigger, for the reason that it has the raw materials at its door, has lower living costs and is nearer to the centers of consumption.'"

The same mail brought a copy of the Charlotte "Observer," containing an editorial headed "Idealism in Business." After explaining that I have been covering much ground in recent travels, and after quoting from something I recently wrote, the paper says:

"Mr. Forbes, in addition to analyzing the agricultural, industrial, mining, mercantile and financial conditions of sections he has been visiting, has often met with and addressed Chambers of Commerce and similar representative bodies, and in his talks he is emphasizing the extreme importance, the extreme desirability and the extreme value of business men bestirring themselves to earn the good will of the rank and file of the people of those communities, and particularly their own employees."

"In our own section we have seen a steady development of this form of idealism in business and industry."

For instance, in the early days of the textile industry in this section little attention was paid to the living conditions of the workers in the industry. And that was natural because in those days the owners of those first small mills were themselves struggling against what appeared to be almost insuperable odds and their entire thought was for the establishment upon a sound basis of their enterprise.

"After those days passed and the industry became firmly established, more and more attention has been turned to the living conditions and general well-being of the workers in the industry, until today the progressive cotton manufacturer assumes that it is a part of his responsibility and a part of his business to see that the workers in the industry are not only provided with comfortable living quarters, with as many as possible of the modern conveniences of the home but that also support is provided for adequate educational, social and other activities of the modern community. Not a small proportion of the cotton mills in this section employ, or contribute to the employment of, nurses, or other social workers and to the churches as well as to the schools of their respective communities."

"The same development has taken place in other industries of this section and it is well that this is so."

"And, after all, isn't it better to be held in the affection of our fellows than to make ourselves just a little wealthier in this world's good?"

Yes, the southern manufacturers referred to by the Charlotte Observer are on the right track.

FORD'S INCOME IS $500,000 DAILY

Auto Manufacturer Will Make $125,000,000 the Current Year

TAXES RUN INTO MILLIONS

Credited With Being Richest Man in United States

DETROIT, (United Press).—Henry Ford, Detroit automobile manufacturer, is credited with being the richest man in the United States. Ford keeps a bank balance of $200,000,000.

Ford admits he doesn't know how much he is worth—not within several millions. He is generally credited with being a billionaire.

Ford will make the current year according to the best information, $125,000,000. His taxes run into the millions.

Ford has made his vast fortune along the lines of peace—automobiles for pleasure or business; tractors, for farm cultivation.

Ford differs from Sir Basil Zarahoff, Europe's richest man, in that Ford's money was made along the path of peace; Zarahoff's, those of war.

There is nothing mysterious about Henry Ford. In 1903, Ford admits he had nothing. Today the Ford Motor Company, ownership of which is entirely within the Ford family, could be capitalized at two billion and pay five per cent on the capitalization, according to experts. Ford's daily income when his factories are running full blast, is estimated at $500,000.

Contrasted with Zarahoff, Europe's man of mystery, the richest man in America shines even appearance of mystery. Tall, slender, gray of hair and of eyes, he has rather a neutral personality when in repose. He talks freely to reporters, encourages newspaper men to call on him, tells them his aims and how he makes his money. He prints his own paper, the "Dearborn Independent," in air views that no one else will print.

LIVES THE SIMPLE LIFE

Ford believes in the simple life. He has traveled little and doesn't think much of the little. He lives quietly with his family at Dearborn, Mich., close to his experimental laboratories, takes pride in his money. His auto, his tractor and his family. Ford is a good deal like John D. Rockefeller in one trait—the desire to absolutely control the materials which go into his product and take the profit for himself. That is why Ford owns the Detroit, Toledo and Ironport R. R., a road which facilitates shipment of motor cars and coal from mines which he owns in Kentucky and West Virginia. He also controls the Imperial iron mine located at Ishpeming, Mich.

Ford's business ideals, as dictated by himself, are:

1. Disregard competition
2. Think service before profit.
3. Buy material fairly and manufacture with the smallest addition to cost.

In these three rules alone, Ford sees the key to success.

In spite of the keenness of his business intellect, Ford "has notions," as they say down in Michigan.

He has always held that the cause of war is "gold," which evil he claims can be rectified by issuing paper currency based upon the natural resources of the country.

In his effort to purchase "Muscle Shoals" from the government for the purpose of manufacturing nitrate, Ford repeatedly pointed out a possible way for the government to finance his plan by recommending that interest bearing notes to the extent of the required $40,000,000 be issued in "greenbacks" based upon the potential earning power of the plant.

Ford thinks history is "the bunk" and said so in his million dollar suit against the Chicago Tribune.

Ford has conducted a bitter campaign against the "international Jew," which seems to be largely a mythical figure centralizing greed of gold.

ATTACKS MADE ON WALL STREET

Ford within two years, has bitterly attacked Wall Street, which he has repeatedly charged with "fleecing an ignorant and defenceless public."

On the other hand, the enemies of Ford, and he has quite a few, say he concentrates his entire attention on the accumulation of gold and his bitterest criticism of Wall Street came about the time he was temporarily pinched for cash and Wall Street wanted everything but Ford's shirt for security.

Ford doesn't believe in miscellaneous charity. You never see his name in the lists of big donors to public causes. They say in Detroit that he is not generally looked upon as good material for community "touches." His $6 minimum to Ford labor was regarded as both real charity and good business.

Ford hasn't let much of his money go into politics, either, in spite of his campaign for senator, which ended in the courts.

Ford aroused general interest when, in 1915, he sent the "peace ship" to Europe to "get the boys out of the trenches by Christmas." Of course he didn't get them out, but he did get a lot of advertising of one kind or another.

At home, Henry Ford is a pleasing, quiet personality, apparently frank and sincere and is a ready listener.

He seldom holidays and when he does, he enters into the sport with all his energy. His trips are usually taken with Thomas Edison and when Burroughs, famous naturalist, was alive, these three made a happy trio in holiday season.

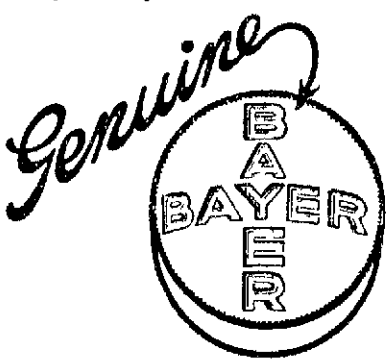

Every year, like three school boys, Burroughs, Edison and Ford went camping in an old tent in the work just as he used to do in the built their own fire and cooked their own food on the shore of some quiet lake.

At home, Henry Ford, invariably retires at 9 p. m. or before, rising about 5 a. m. in the summer and at 6 or 7 in the winter.

"I never rise regularly," Ford said, "as I do not believe in rising before one is thoroughly rested and ready for the day's work." When he reaches the Dearborn office, Ford sets in for a hard day's work just as he used to do in the early days of his career. He sets no task for his employees that he himself cannot accomplish and lives up to the letter of a slogan that pervades the very atmosphere in every Ford plant. It is: "Everybody here must produce—or get off the job."

LEGION WOMEN TO ASK CHARTER

Delphos Auxiliary Organization, is Nearing Success

Application for a charter to form an auxiliary to Commemorative post, Delphos American Legion, will be made soon, according to Dolt Swihart, chairman of a committee named to form the organization.

Names of ten wives, sisters and mothers of ex-service men will be secured for the charter application, which will be sent to national headquarters at Indianapolis. Ten are necessary to apply for a charter.

Mrs. Otto Hemmle has been secured to secure the necessary signers. She will also assist the committee in signing members.

A general meeting of all wives, mothers and sisters of Delphos ex-soldiers and ex-sailors will be held soon. Arrangements will be made to call a special meeting sometime before the regular meeting of the legion in December.

A constitution and by-laws will be adopted immediately after the selection of a temporary chairman and secretary. After the organization has been started, the legion will withdraw and the auxiliary will be conducted as a separate body, aligned with the legion only in social and entertainment affairs which are of common interest.

There should be an enrollment of 300 in the auxiliary, the legion committee estimates.

Do You Have Catarrh?
 Almost All Blood Diseases Yield To This Treatment as Told By Mrs. Shatalroo

Alliance, Ohio.—"I take pleasure in stating that I have used five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, one bottle of the 'Favorite Prescription' and a vial of 'Pleasant Pellets' and I am wonderfully improved. I suffered forty years from catarrh. Two years ago I had the 'flu' and suffered from bad head noises and my hearing was impaired. Last September I was so weak I could scarcely walk four blocks away from home, but after giving the 'Discovery' a fair trial and I am now able to sleep about eight hours, also eat a fair meal without suffering indigestion, and can hear the clock tick. I am twenty percent better than I have been for five years."—Mrs. Isabelle Shatalroo.

GIRL SINGS WAY TO STARDOM

May Become Youngest Grand Opera Singer Soon

SPECTACULAR RISE SHOWN

Voice Pronounced Miraculous by Noted Experts

(BY MORRIS QUINN)

NEW YORK.—(Special)—This is the story of a little girl who sang her way from dishwater to fame. And it contains a lesson for everybody, young or old, talent or not, who would rise from a mean position in life to a lofty one.

The little girl is Marion Talley. Two weeks ago she was just the daughter of a Kansas City daily's telegrapher—a little miss who liked to sing.

Today she is acclaimed by New York as a wonder child, a marvelous songbird, a coming record for talent, an "it" girl in the future she may be the world's greatest grand opera star.

Already she has turned down one proffered contract, "sit in an opera because she knows her voice," she will be all the greater for it, she puts in several years of hard work and study.

TELLS HOW SHE DID IT

Marion herself told today in an exclusive interview for the News the story of her spectacular rise.

"Mother, as I began to sing at the age of two," Marion said. "She'd sing little lullabies to me and I'd immediately repeat them carrying the tune."

"Of course, I don't remember that but I do know that ever since I can recollect, I've sung."

"As I grew up I had to help mother with housework. Instead of trying to dodge dishwashing, sweeping and dusting, I did them and singing at the same time."

of singing and I found that made it easy. In school I was called on to sing at entertainments and festivals. Then finally I decided to sing in the church choir.

"I can never forget the first time I took my seat in the choir. The director listened to me intently and when I had sung my first hymn, he called me to sit in the first row."

"That was my turning point. From that time on my ambition to be a singer grew in me."

And now let Mrs. Charles M. Talley, Marion's mother, take up the story.

"Marion soon became church soloist. She was paid as much as a man. Her voice came to be in demand at all kinds of entertainments and she was well paid. Soon her talent caught the attention of a local wealthy Kansas City man."

"At a special concert $10,000 was raised to pay for her musical education. And the Metropolitan Opera company at New York was asked to test her voice."

So Mr. and Mrs. Talley and Marion came to New York. In the Metropolitan Opera House Marion sang before Giulio Gatti-Casazza, director of the opera company. Otto Kahn, head of the board of directors and half a dozen others whose names are known all over the world.

And all pronounced Marion's voice, "marvelous" and said that her chances of becoming a star were of the best.

STUDY AHEAD—

So Marion and her mother are settling down in New York where Marion will study hard for three years under the best teachers while her father goes back to his telegraph key in Kansas City.

And the "it" girl? "No matter how obscure you may be at the start you can, in time, become famous if you really try," says Marion.

"I got ahead by being contented with my lot but at the same time reaching upward and doing my best to develop my talent."

That's why I wash dishes and sing instead of letting the dishes go and dreaming of fame."

That's why I was always willing to sing anywhere and for anybody instead of considering myself above."

And in time I have got ahead by trying to dodge dishwashing, sweeping and dusting. I did them and singing at the same time."

ANCIENT HOOTCH LAWS FOUND

Hieroglyphics Reveal Bootleggers of Prehistoric Times

PROFESSOR PROBES CASES

Makes Study of Earliest Prohibition Laws

When you were a tadpole and I was a fish, in the paleozoic time, we'd brew our booze in the primal ooze.

And roll in the syzygian time, we'd make our stills and curse our ill.

And we'd serve in the primitive pen, we were much afraid of the dry squad's raid.

For we bootlegged even then, from "Hymns of a Bootlegger."

BIRKLEY, Cal., (Special).—From the hieroglyphs and historic records of ancient Egypt and Assyria has been coaxed at last the story of man's earliest adventures in prohibition.

And what they say is, "Old Stuff!"

For these centuries-old characters and writings tell us that even then did bootleggers flourish and home brew was abroad in the land; that there were dry laws and dry raids, and boys sat around their Babylonian beer and wailed "them was the days."

To Prof. H. P. Lutz, Egyptologist at the University of California, are we indebted for the exhaustive research that bared these consoling pictures of the past. Professor Lutz has just completed a comprehensive pamphlet on "Viticulture and Brewing in the Ancient Orient."

And, oh boy, among other things he discovered more than 100 "recipes" for "making your own."

Also he found that prohibition was not much of a success in its first appearance. It came as a religious enactment.

Persia, it seems, was the cradle of the bootlegger. A nation largely occupied in the making of wine, it did not take kindly to the enforcement act. Egyptian monarchs finally interceded, but wine smuggling already was becoming a pet sport.

Professor Lutz discovered that the potency of the humble raisin was appreciated, by dry enforcers as well as the home brewers. From the "Daily Hieroglyph"—or whatever the ancient bulletin board was called—he culls the following, which may sound familiar to many:

"In the year 401, during the reign of Hakim, many people of Cairo were beaten and led shamefully thru the streets because they had sold wine, a forbidden merchandise." There you have the fate of the first bootlegger.

Again, he finds this: "Hakim prohibited the sale of raisins and issued orders against importation. Large quantities of raisins were thrown into the Nile or burned, or were thrown into the streets and trampled upon. The vineyards of Gizeh were cut down and destroyed."

"FIRST DRY." It was, Mohammed, it seems, who staged the first widespread dry campaign. Professor Lutz finds that there were political as well as moral reasons.

Plus, that good old wet, is found to have taken up the anti-prohibition platform.

It is also discovered from Egyptian monuments that Egyptians were heavy drinkers when the dry law was enacted. Festive parties galore are depicted. Women overcome by wine are frequently found in the figures on tomb stones at Thebes.

The "eat, drink and be merry" slogan was introduced by hosts who had servants carry the wooden image of a corpse about a banquet table while he pronounced the toast: "Behold—drink and be happy, for after thy death thou wilt be as this one."

Finally professor Lutz concludes that ancient prohibition lasted only for a short time. Among the Moslems, however, it was rigidly enforced and is to this day.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE HEAD SUED FOR $100,000

ELMHURST, N. Y.,—William H. Anderson, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, has been sued for $100,000 by Francis E. Cortright of Corning, who charges that Mr. Anderson slandered him in statements during the election campaign.

Mr. Cortright was a candidate for the Republican and Prohibition nomination in the primaries as member of the assembly. He was nominated by the Prohibition party but was defeated by Edwin J. Carpenter.

The suit is based on a circular which Mr. Cortright said was issued over Mr. Anderson's name, in which Mr. Cortright's position on the prohibition question, according to the papers filed, was subjected to attack.

Oat Flakes

Consider how they differ

Some oats are rich and plump. They make the large and luscious flakes you find in Mother's Oats. But we get only 10 pounds from a bushel.

Some oats are puny and insipid. They lack that delightful flavor.

Which kind are you serving?

Oats supply 16 needed elements. They yield 1810 calories of nutriment per pound.

They are rich in body-building elements, in vitamins and minerals. They hold supreme place as a food for growing children.

Then why not serve delicious flakes, the kind that children love?

In Mother's Oats you get the premier oat food, and at one-half cent per dish.

DRY WORLD SEEN BY LEADER

President of W. C. T. U. Feels Tendency for Prohibition

CAMPAIGN IN 40 NATIONS

Great Strides Forward Reported by Organization

(Miss Anna Adams Gordon of Birmingham, Ala., has just been elected president of the international body of the W. C. T. U. at that organization's meeting in Philadelphia. Miss Gordon gave an exclusive statement to The Lima News and NEA Service outlining the far-reaching projects she will seek to put into effect to make the world dry.)

(BY ANNA ADAMS GORDON) President, World's Women's Christian Temperance Union.

HILADELPHIA, (Special) — For 40 years the Women's Christian Temperance Union has been working for prohibition in 40 nations.

An international educational program has been conducted in practically every civilized part of the globe. Thousands of workers speaking many languages have been carrying forward the work.

All over the world we have been imparting to peoples of all the races the fundamental knowledge of the effect of alcohol on the human system.

DISCOURAGED AND ENCOURAGED

Difficulties and obstacles of course have beset these W. C. T. U. workers but they have been encouraged and cheered on by two facts:

ONE: They always have known they were a part of a great organization, that they were all banded together for one purpose, and could count on the support and cooperation of their fellow workers everywhere.

TWO: Almost from the beginning we achieved some results; and with the passing years and the extending of our efforts into newer and larger territories we have seen the work going successfully forward.

In recent years great strides toward world-wide prohibition have been made. With these advancements many reinforcements have joined our ranks. Many rational, thinking men and women the world over who were not originally in sympathy with prohibition have come to see the sound scientific basis of our objective and have joined with us and are now lending their best efforts to our work.

TO CONTINUE PROGRESS

We shall carry on our program along practically the same lines we have followed for 40 years, and we are confident of a successful termination of our long-sought objective of world-wide prohibition.

The position of the W. C. T. U. in the matter of cigarettes and tobacco is exactly what it always has been. We do not put tobacco and cigarettes side by side with alcoholic beverages. Our national program on the subject of tobacco is an educational one, outlined and carried forward in the interest of the health of boys and girls everywhere.

It is based on established scientific facts that prove beyond question the injurious effect of narcotics on the physical and nervous system.

We have worked largely with the school and other educational officials and authorities and almost without exception they have shown the keenest interest and readiest disposition to cooperate with us.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the remedy was to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.—Adv.

By Mrs. Hadley Minhart

"My husband suffered from high blood pressure. For three years he had terrible dizzy spells and spent many sleepless nights. He would often be taken in the middle of the night with one of these spells and I would have to get temporary aid immediately. He was advised to take NORMA. After taking one bottle, his dizziness had completely left him and he gets perfect rest, and I can truthfully say that he feels one hundred per cent better than before taking NORMA. Mr. Minhart was advised to stop work and was confined to his home and now can go about his work. It is a wonderful remedy for High Blood Pressure and I am glad to have this opportunity of recommending it to all who suffer as my husband did.

NORMA (purely vegetable) should reduce high blood pressure and make you feel well in a short time. Green's Public Drug Store is selling it every day as are hundreds of good druggists everywhere. Ask for NORMA.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache often means you have been eating too much meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. An excess of meat may form uric acid, which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog, you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water acids and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

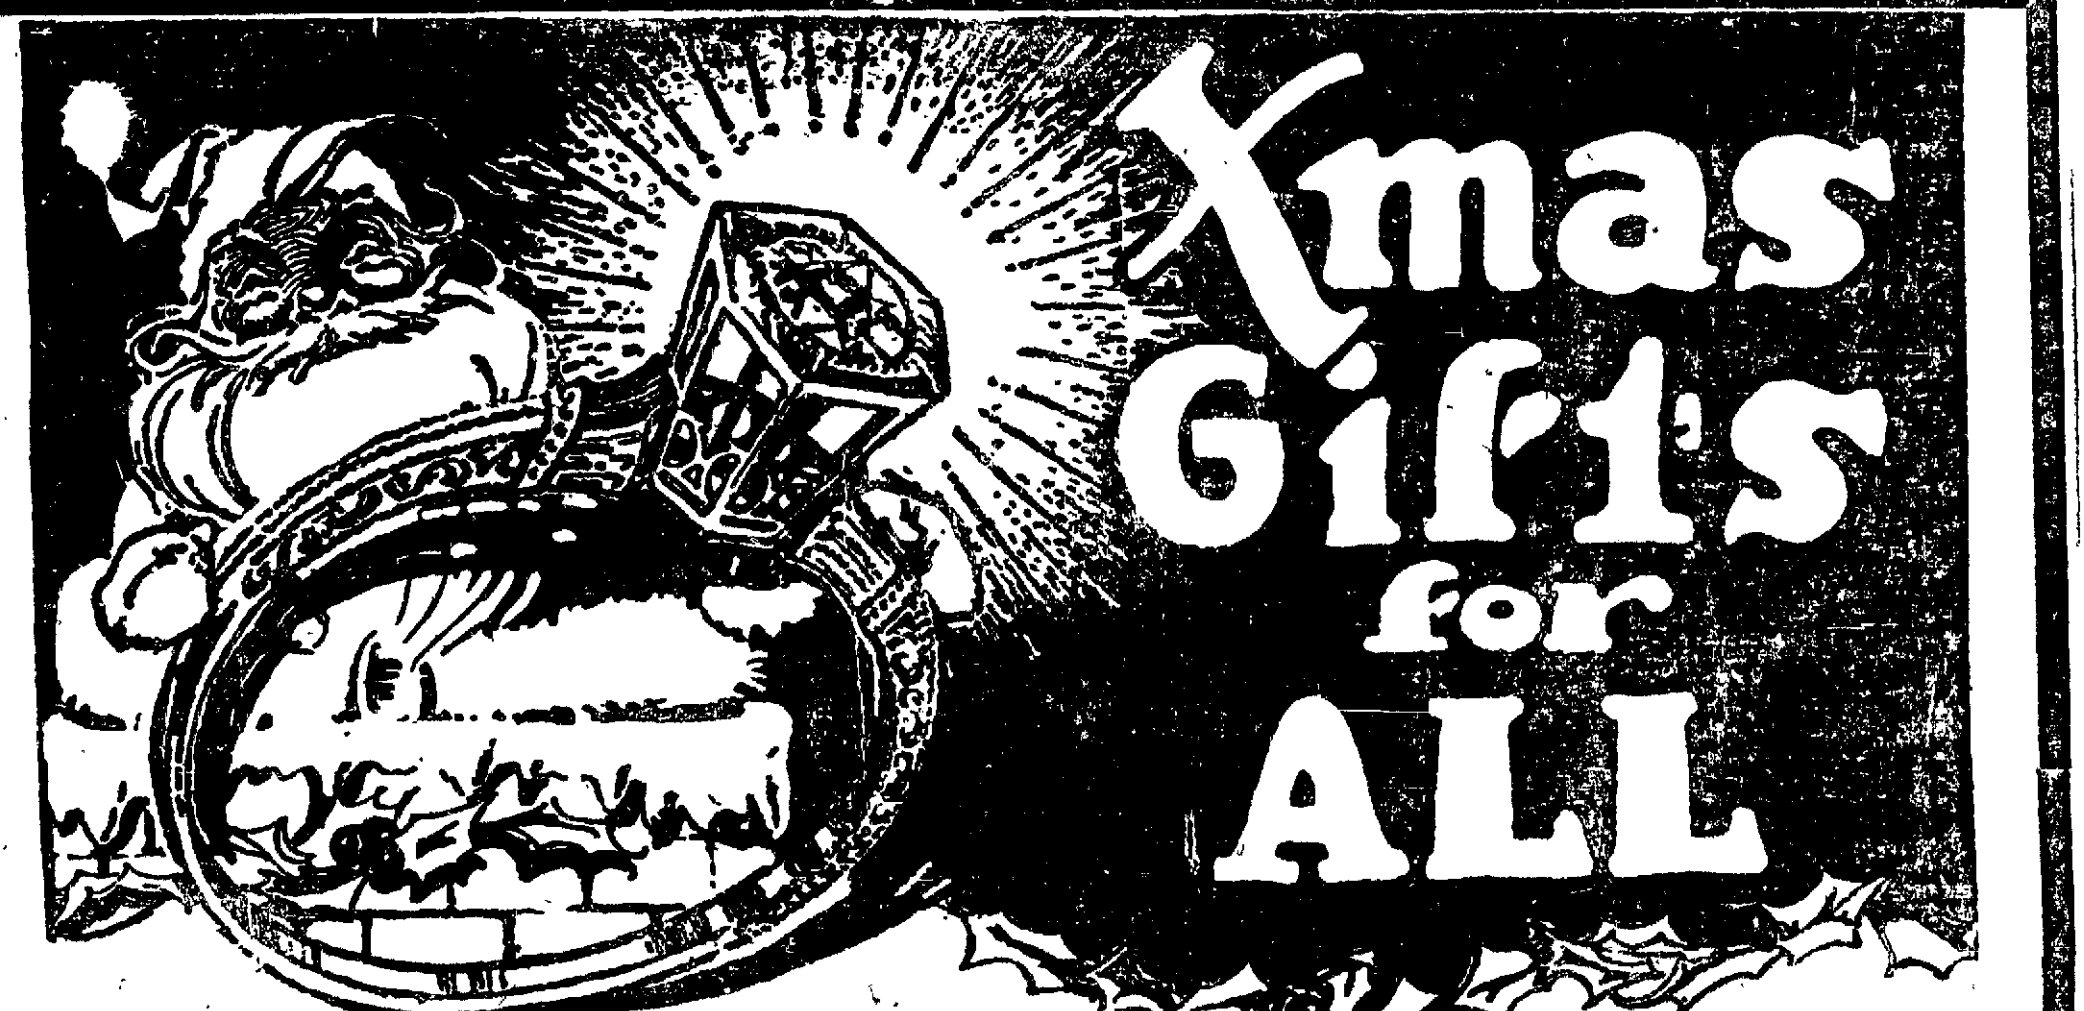

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and to stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and make a delightful, effervescent lithia water drink. Drink lots of soft water.—Adv.

BONAR LAW WINS BIG MAJORITY

New Premier Given Parliament
Control by Election

CONSERVATIVE LANDSLIDE

Labor Party Will Hold Strongest
Opposition

(BY LLOYD ALLEN)

LONDON (United Press) — With a clear majority of 85 seats over all other political parties in parliament, Premier Bonar Law is to have ample opportunity to test his policy of "tranquillity" when commons convenes next Monday.

The Conservatives won a tremendous victory in the elections Wednesday, a victory that was a surprise to the country, coming as it did after early announcement of successes of the Labor Party. Heavy voting in the industrial districts had put many Labor candidates into office early, but when returns from outlying districts came in, Britain's general election proved to have been something in the nature of a conservative landslide.

LAW UNHIMPED
Bonar Law's government will be unhindered for the present; his majority makes it possible for him to rule parliament in an autocratic fashion as did Lloyd George, while at the helm of the coalition government.

The little Welsh ex-premier was not downcast by the result, however. He was returned himself and he will have about him in the house a little group of National Liberals which may prove the nucleus of an efficient opposition.

LABOR'S STRENGTH
For the moment, Labor is to be "His Majesty's opposition." Labor candidates polled more votes and won more seats than all of the three parties who contested the Conservatives. Arthur Henderson, former member of the coalition government, a prominent labor leader, was defeated and the Labor party will be hard put long to hold the leadership of the opposition away from Lloyd George.

Among the prominent candidates defeated were Winston Churchill, captain, the Hon. Freddy Guest, Sir Hamar Greenwood, Edwin Montague and Sir Douglas Maclean.

Returns from ten university constituencies remain to come in, but without the standing was: Conservatives 245; Labor 147; Asquith Liberals 57; Lloyd Georgians 52; independents 10.

PRESS PLEASED OVER OUTCOME

LONDON — (Associated Press) — Gratification is expressed by most of the morning newspapers at the result of the parliamentary elections. This was of course to be expected from the Conservative press, in view of the retention of the Conservative majority but some of the Liberal newspapers also find certain grounds for satisfaction or at least compensation.

They recognize that the outcome means a return to party government and the disappearance of all they most disliked in the survival of the coalition long after they regarded its dissolution as due.

"We are rid," says the Westminster Gazette, "of the compromise and subtleties which have made parliament contemptible," while the Daily News declares the election "has blown a breath of clean air into our discredited parliamentary institutions" and rejoices at the establishment of a "strong, effective and able opposition."

The Daily Herald, exulting over Labor's successes, anticipates another election within eighteen months and says "if in the meantime we play our cards boldly and skillfully we ought to have a labor government without doubt."

The Times regards the result with deep satisfaction and says it demolishes the last argument for maintenance of the coalition. The newspaper would have preferred that the balance be held more evenly between the Liberals and Laborites, but believes the country has nothing to fear and much to gain from ventilation of the Labor party's ideas in parliament.

The size of the Conservative majority is seriously disputed by the papers, their figures ranging from eighty to eighty-seven and until all the returns are complete, this divergence will continue.

CURIOUS SITUATION
A curious situation obtains in the northeast division of Derbyshire where the Labor candidate, Frank Lee, was at first declared elected by a majority of fourteen votes. A recount being demanded, this majority was reduced to two. There have now been six counts in all, and all have been challenged. There will be another today which perhaps will be final.

For the first time in the history of the British parliament a candidate standing as an avowed Communist was elected when J. W. Newbold was elected for the Motherwell division of Lancashire.

Another isolated new member is

E. Scrymgeour, prohibitionist, who with the Laborite, E. D. Morel, defeated Winston Spencer Churchill and three other candidates in Dundee, a two-seat constituency.

Those who expected Mr. Churchill's defeat little expected Scrymgeour's victory. He has been trying to enter parliament for Dundee since 1908, his candidacy hitherto being treated largely as a joke. He is an ardent prohibitionist and was one of those who brought Currier to Great Britain years ago. The women's votes are thought to have been a large factor in his election as they outnumber the men in this district.

Mr. Churchill seems to have been much upset by the result, although he spoke cheerfully when it became known.

Notwithstanding the rejection of all except two of the thirty-three women candidates, it is noteworthy that they polled a very large number of votes and everywhere proved formidable opponents. The largest vote for a woman candidate was cast in Northampton, where the noted Labor leader Miss Marguerite Bondfield, polled more than 14,000 votes.

Of the two re-elected women members, Viscountess Astor polled in excess of 13,000 votes and Mrs. Margaret Wintringham about 11,000 while women candidates in three constituencies received more than 8,000 each and many of the others from six to seven thousand.

The future of the labor party in parliament is a matter of special interest. Being now the second largest party in the house, it should, according to parliamentary tradition, become the official opposition, and it is expected it will claim for its chairman the post of leader of what is by some facetiously called "his majesty's opposition."

Official Report Made on Earth-

NUMBER OF DEAD CUT TO 548

Buildings Are Swept Away by Great Tidal Wave

SANTIAGO, Chile — (Associated Press) — Revised figures given out by the minister of the interior place the total of those killed in last Saturday's earthquake at 548, which is considerably below the earlier reports.

The number of injured is only partly estimated, the total being set at 827, but those coming under this category in Vallenar and Channaral are described in the report as "innumerable."

Going into details, the report says that the destruction at Antofagasta consisted of the partial demolition of some privately owned inns, the loss of a number of boats and damage to the wireless plant.

CITY IN RUINS
Vallenar City is in ruins, with 333 dead and the injured "innumerable" but estimated at around 600.

The entire lower section of Channaral was razed, the commercial quarter, railway station, a school and the work shops being among the buildings destroyed. Seventeen are dead and many injured.

At Copiapo, approximately half the houses were destroyed and others rendered uninhabitable and many public buildings were destroyed. The dead there number sixty-four.

The earthquake was particularly violent in the vicinity of the Copiapo cemetery, the movement thrusting a number of corpses from their graves.

At Caldera the tidal waves carried away the railroad station, workshops and customs house and destroyed the mole. There were no casualties. Similar damage was suffered at Carrizal Bajo. The town of Carrizal Alto is in ruins.

Preirina was destroyed. Eighteen were killed in the town and sixty in the district. At Huasco the tidal wave caused small damage and eight deaths. At Huasco Bajo twelve are dead. At Vicuna the government house, police barracks, high school and other buildings are in complete ruins.

The extent of the damage at Rivi-er was considerable but has not been definitely established. At La Serena thirty houses are uninhabitable. The Victoria quarter of Coquimbo was swept away by tidal waves, the railroad station was destroyed, the building of Grace and demolished. Twenty-four and thirteen are injured. Of Tongol was destroyed were no casualties.

ATZEC TREASURE IS SOUGHT

Health of Ancient Race Believed to be Located

INDIANS BURIED GOLD

Vault Found on Land Owned by American

OSARK Ark.—(Special).—Is the long sought secret of the fabulously rich Aztec gold mines near a solution? Will interpretation of a series of mysterious markings on the face of a rock here lead to a vault of gold and silver bullion worth $120,000,000?

The quest on this come to the fore again, as deep research is being made to determine the hieroglyphics, and as plans are going forward for the final search which is expected to end treasure quests over more than a century. A man who has searched for a quarter of a century and expended thousands of dollars, thinks that herein is the key, and that he will soon unlock the romantic mystery of the "Lost Louisiana" mines.

Tradition has it that the ancient Aztecs operated fabulously rich gold and silver mines in Mexico, using the metals for implement making. With the coming of the Spaniards, the mines were seized.

Twelve of the mines are said to have been located in the wild isolated parts of the Ozarks. The Spaniards are said to have operated these with Mexican slave labor until 1793. Then came rumors of war with France.

SPANISH HIDE TREASURE

Fearful lest their treasure-trove be seized, the Spaniards are said to have stored all the gold and silver bullion in a secret vault and obliterated all trails leading to it and to the mines. For their future guidance, they are said to have left secret markings on the face of a cliff.

When the territory passed into French possession in 1800, French adventurers started the search for the treasure. After American acquisition it by the Louisiana purchase, the search continued.

Now, after years of fruitless search by his predecessors, one prospector remains confident in his belief that he has finally struck the spot where the Aztec treasure lies hidden. He is Dr. Tobie Hill, a practicing physician of Mulberry, Ark.

Twenty-five years ago, a roving Spaniard divulged the secret of the lost mines to Dr. Hill and his father. He took them over the territory which the physician's father owns, and which he says, holds the secret of this vast wealth.

After these 25 years of unremitting search and the expenditure of between $15,000 and $25,000, Dr. Hill has succeeded only in reaching what he believes is the vault where the Spaniards buried the gold and silver they had unearthed from the Aztec mines. But he is halted at the opening.

There, on a ledge above the entrance to the natural vault, is what Hill believes is the open sesame to the treasure. It consists of hieroglyphics or strange signs.

An accident led Dr. Hill to the discovery of the vault and its queer tablet. A ledge of rock near his father's home had long been the "rubbing post" for hogs. One day a neighbor noticed that the hogs had uncovered the graven figure of a bow and arrow pointing downward.

He told Dr. Hill and digging was immediately begun. Down and down went the workmen until they had uncovered an entire cliff, about 30 feet high and 100 feet long. A smooth face covered with the strange signs. Tunnels were bored and shafts sunk until water forced their abandonment.

To the right of this cliff, the natural vault was found which, it is the firm belief of Dr. Hill, contains the buried treasure. People about here now call it the "Tobie Hill mine." It is flooded with the waters of Mulberry Creek and no way can be found into it—unless its secret can be unfolded from the signs above its entrance.

OIL STOCK FRAUD EXPOSE OPENS

Texas Begins Investigation of Sales of Worthless Paper

PROSECUTIONS ARE PLANNED

"Mergers" Open Way for New
Swindle of Unwary

FORT WORTH, Tex. — (Special) — Three fold investigation of the flooding of many states with worthless oil stocks is under way in Texas. Criminal prosecution of many oil promoters for fraudulent use of the mails, bartering of their present business methods by the Federal Trade Commission, and exposure of these methods by the national vigilance committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America are among the results expected.

The investigations in Texas center in Fort Worth, Dallas and Houston. Similar inquiries are under way or have been completed in Arkansas, another hotbed of bogus stock selling, and in Kansas City.

Evidence already has been uncovered showing the swindling of thousands of persons throughout the United States. Heavier even than at the time oil "wildcatting" was in its flower in Texas is the harvest of illicit gain which the promoters have reaped.

MAKE BIG CLEAN-UP
Publicity either in newspapers specializing in oil promotion or in direct-by-mail canvassing of "sucker lists," has enabled the stock-selling promoters to make amazing "clean-ups" at the expense of the credulous.

"Declarations of trust," which the promoters hold are legal under the common law, are used by the oil men to enable them to evade prosecution in the state courts or suits in the civil.

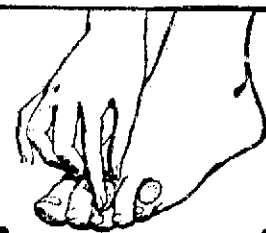

Claiming the right under these declarations to exclusive and complete control of the affairs of the syndicates they organize, the promoters often pocket 50 per cent or more of the proceeds from their stock-selling campaigns as "organization fees," pay themselves handsome salaries and meet big expense accounts from the remainder, and spend little or nothing in actual oil operations.

"MERGERS" QUESTIONED

From syndicates which have been milked dry by the original promoters, numerous oil "mergers" now flourishing in Fort Worth and elsewhere buy lists of stockholders and canvass these for more profits. The "mergers" write alluring letters offering to exchange their own stock for the stock of defunct companies provided the holders buy 25 per cent additional "merger" stock—for cash. Legitimacy of the "merger" promotions is being specially inquired into by the Federal Trade Commission.

Small dividends which the "mergers" pay from time to time come from the proceeds of stock sales, federal authorities here believe.

"WHEN"

What it stands for!

Here is the story of a really different store

THE WHEN STORE is but one of the really different Ready-To-Wear Clothing Stores where men, women and children can secure the finest clothes—where they can secure the latest styles at lower prices than prevail elsewhere—where everyone can buy their clothes on a plan that gives everybody the opportunity to be well dressed. Q The WHEN STORE, because of its tremendous volume of chain store business can sell clothes of guaranteed quality at the lowest prices. The letters reproduced below prove that people appreciate the modern, popular plan that offers you the convenience of a "charge account," that enables you to purchase what you wish and make divided payments as you receive your income, without any extra cost for the service. A visit to our store will tell more than a million words.

Here is the evidence!

The When Store,
City.

Gentlemen:

In a few days my daughter, who deals with you — I guess all our family does — will be in to your store, and I would like to have you send a boy's suit, size 12 with her for me. I want a suit in dark mixture, and I know I can trust your judgment. That other boy's suit I bought was surely a good one. In more than a year that I have been dealing with you, I have not bought one thing with which I was not pleased.

I know I am not paying any more by having my purchases charged, and paying for them on payments has been a big help to me. I know other people who deal with you, and I am sure they are people who deal with you on request!

Optical for the whole family

Very truly yours,
(Name on Request)

The When Store,
City.

Gentlemen:

Please hold for me the dress I was looking at the other day. I was pricing some down the street, and could not find anything to compare with it at the price. It surely is true customers do not have to pay more at your store on the charge account plan than at other places for cash, and then you people have been very considerate, and made a person feel welcome.

My sisters tell me they deal with you and like it very much. Don't forget to hold the dress, the style I know which one.

Very truly yours,
(Name on Request)

The When Store,
City.

Gentlemen:

I was just looking over my receipts to-day and had not realized I have been dealing with you almost two years. I used to think a person had to pay more when buying on charge account, but I have learned I do not at your store. You people have always been so kind and courteous to me, and I have heard other people say the same.

Very truly yours,
(Name on Request)

The When Store,
City.

Gentlemen:

I want to thank you for the prompt service I received when I purchased my last suit at your store. I was unexpectedly called away and was obliged to have a new suit in a hurry. You made the necessary alterations in double quick time.

The plan on which you sell your goods makes it very convenient as I can pay for them as I get paid and the nice thing about it is you do not charge any more than strictly cash stores.

Very truly yours,
(Name on Request)

The When Store,
City.

Gentlemen:

I have dealt with your store for several years and have always been satisfied. I like the new styles, and good quality merchandise, so that is the first place I go when I need a new garment, and generally find just what I want.

Sincerely yours,

OPEN LETTERS

To Mayor Cunningham

DEAR BRUD: What did you do, Brud, when you ran out of quinine and cascara? Well, that's what you and I must do now. City Hall is out of money and you and I must get our heads together, and between us, believe we can convince the citizens and the citizenesses that we should have that two-mill levy. Of course it isn't as hard getting home in the dark since Volstead took the stagger out of walking, but after being accustomed to our Boul lights, I don't like to go home in the dark. Let's think; how we can get some real municipal coin.

LIMA BEANE

To Lima Parents

DEAR FOLKS: Are you spoiling your little Mary and baby Billy? I've been thinking about it, since my brood of four have scattered, one to the pen, one to the farm, one to the schoolroom and one in a laundry. And I gave them careful training. But spoiled them, each in their turn. They never knew what it was to make their own sulky out of lath and two discarded express wagon wheels. They never made a catcher's "mitt" out of their sister's kid glove, stuffed with grass. No, they bought their sporting paraphernalia at the stores. And picked out midiron and driver instead of going to the woods Saturday morning for a shiny club. And rubbing and shining and polishing it, like a groom handles a fine racer. So this warning to you; be modest in overloading your kiddies with the luxuries of life, buy something for yourself, rather.

LIMA BEANE

To Lima Nimrods

DEAR MR. HUNTER: No one loves a rabbit with gravy better than do I. My address is East High-st, and you are welcome to leave me a bunny any day you choose. I can't get away from my desk, with the foreman and the linotypers calling for copy. I must depend upon you, or Harry Workman. And Harry seems to have forgotten all about my longing for a Br'er Cottontail.

LIMA BEANE

To Fire Chief Mack

DEAR JAWN: My attention has been called to the fact that for several weeks past the men of your central department have been operating the aerial truck with the rubber tire missing from one of the rear wheels.

I rather imagine that such a procedure is damaging to the metal rim. Why hasn't it been replaced? Is it due to the fact that the city hasn't sufficient money, is it an oversight or cannot the right size tire be secured?

LIMA BEANE

To Dr. W. E. Biederwolf

DEAR DOCTOR: It has been, I should say without my calendar, twelve years since I had as my guest the Rt. Rev. William A. Sunday. An evangelist of note, who leaving Lima went into the big league. And has since there remained. If my memory serves me, you have been serving God and man for even a greater time than has the revered Sunday. To you, then, twice welcome and your stay the doubly enjoyed. Because you are playing sinners and deacons alike, gives me hope that in the grand round-up on the sawdust trail, will be many from the masses and at least a soupcon from the finger bowl colony.

I have heard you in action and there is no pulpit occupant in the states today your equal. I am going to hear you again and still again. To you, my hat's off, and my columns open.

night. So sent Auntie May-me out before the eggs. To the corner drug-gery, and she returned saluting me with Dr. Epsom, the noble emancipator. Or etadicator, methinks. So, the doctor and I went into consultation. Thereafter, breakfasted on quickly-made toast and radishes.

* Uncle Sol back on the job this day. And afoot to the post, where greeted by a letter from Dee, claiming her budget does not budge. And I mightily sad thereat. In all the scientific family budgets I have ever given note, none are workable. The highly-paid feminine budgeteers well know they won't work.

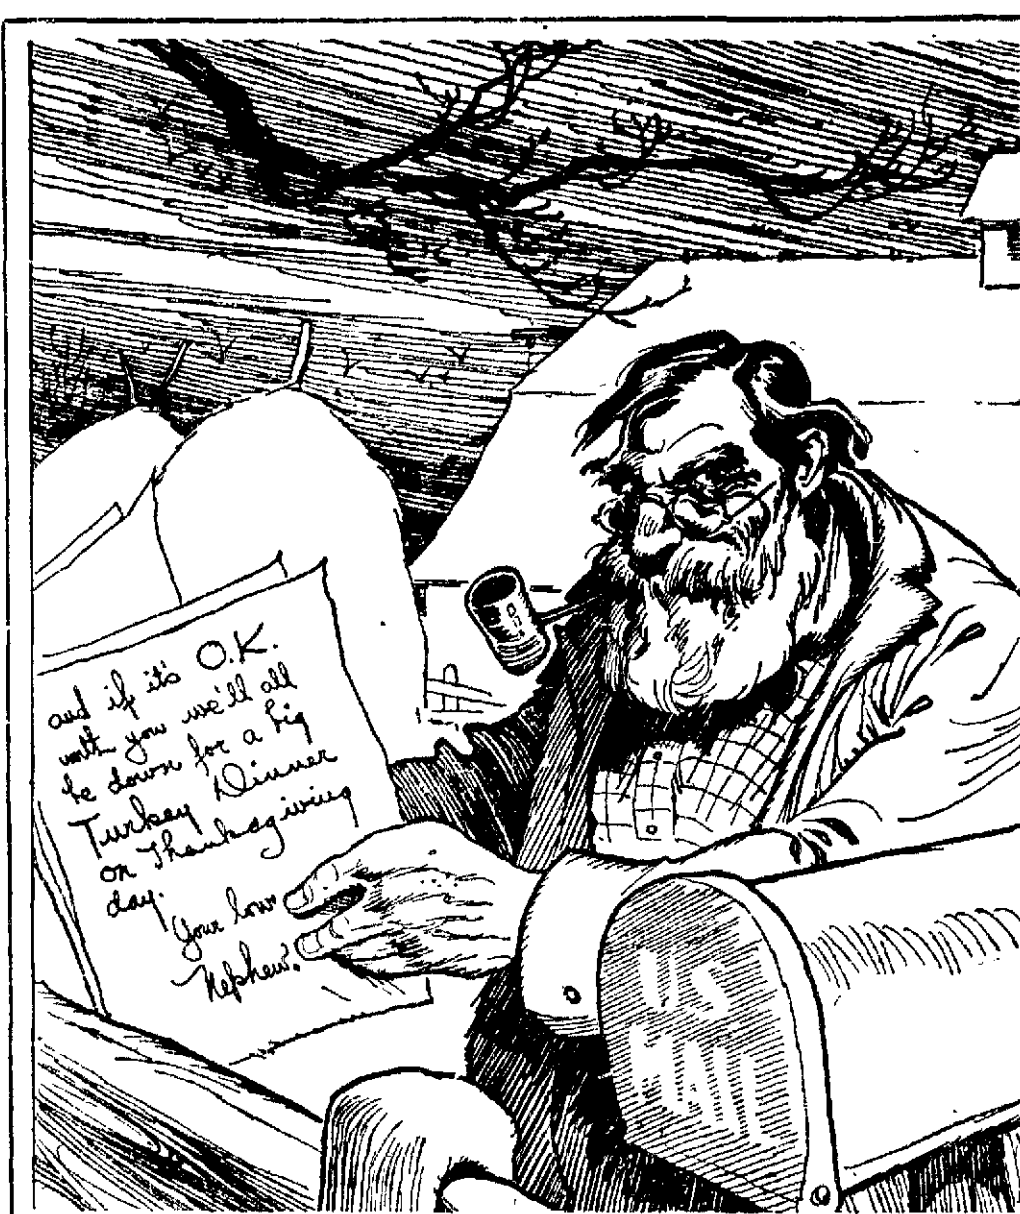

Hence, must phone Dee that her budget is running true to form and to history. They never work. The bank clerks won't let them work. You still have checks in your book, when you are long since out of funds in the bank. To the office, where all the morning busy. And whence came, Raymond Horn, the mixologist, and we discussed on the value of keeping a soda fountain open in the winter season. Making folks have all the joys of Cedar Point even in zero weather. Thence out, to see Homer Hughes, the silversmith. Acent the resetting of my noble garnet wedding ring. And met Sheriff-elect Crosson, who didn't know me.

Returning, saluted with a brave rabbit. Stopped in his animal life by the unerring machine-gun work of Linotyper Andrews. And with it I shall have some thick, heavy white gravy. And serve myself the hind leg, which will have been bathed an hour in hot saltwater. And just as I finish, will telephone Doc Basinger to run over and view the remains.

To my tailor's for a fitting, and mightily pleased. Albeit, methinks it is costing much money. Howbeit, if I do not do it now, I shall not in the hereafter. And I may be able to pay for it, or have health to take pleasure in it. So, filled with expectation, and not worrying too much over the cost, home. In the evening to the Tabernacle.

THE ANNUAL LETTER IS ABOUT DUE

To John Neibauer

DEAR JOHN: Of course you couldn't tell your friends, but the wisecracks should have known that the melon was long since ripened. One hundred percent Christmas gift to Solar stockholders was magnanimous, and then that extra $5 cash was rather cream for the pudding. There seems something magical about Standard Oil, but the magic always becomes fact. Yes, Mr. Neibauer, it was certainly kind of you.

LIMA BEANE

To Coroner-Elect Smith

DEAR HARRY: Since Governor-elect Vic formation for you when it was found that an error had been made in the tabulation of the vote of the November 7 election and that you are the beneficiary of a majority of ten, instead of being in a tie with Dr. A. C. Adams.

Confidentially, I do not believe Coroner Adams cares very much about it and that he is willing to gracefully retire from office when you step in on January 1, next. At any rate, the discovery made by the board of elections will save some expense in the conduct of a court suit such as you had started.

LIMA BEANE

To Governor Davis

DEAR HARRY: Since Governor-elect Vic Donahay is scheduled to depart for southern Ohio to hunt rabbits for a week, I'll have time to analyze the election results more thoroly, while he is dodging job hunters.

I have been wondering who deserves the most credit for Vic's election. But certainly no apportionment of credit would be fair unless you were given your share for the sentiment for a Democratic administration which you cooked up by many a little act on your part during the past two years.

LIMA BEANE

To Senator Newberry

DEAR TRUME: News reports assert that you have refused to consider resigning from the United States senate. However, as far as your party is concerned, your resignation would come too late as the defeated Messrs. New, McCumber, Freylinghuysen, France, Kellogg, Dupont and Townsend can testify.

FANTASIES

I still believe in Santa Claus,
I still believe in fairies;
I hold my faith in them because,
Unless illusion taries,
There is no fun in life at all.
No use in work or strife at all,
No sense in any scheming.
There isn't any doubt of it,
We might as well be out of it,
It robbed of all our dreaming.

I still believe a pot of gold
Is at the rainbow's ending;
Which, by adventure brave and bold,
I may in time be spending.
And tho the cynic jeer at me
And all the pedants sneer at me
And all the facts confound me;
The gold is there, I'm sure of it,
And evermore the lure of it
Will bind, as it has bound me!

Oh bleak indeed is life for those
Who have no rosy visions;
Who live within a world of prose,
Of facts and grim predictions.
The silly dreams I've kept from you
Are nearer to the living truth
Than all their dull-eyed cure is;
I laugh and flout their dreary laws,
I still believe in Santa Claus,
I still believe in fairies!

FIGHTS TO CLEAR SON'S MEMORY

Mother of slain Army Officer Begins Crusade

VICTIM OF CAMP ACCIDENT

Charges and Counter-Charges Probed by Woman

WASHINGTON—(United Press).—The war with the Central Powers, came to successful conclusion, Nov. 11, 1918. On or about that day, another war started, the war of a heart broken mother determined to vindicate the character of her boy and remove from his name forever whatever doubt there might have been in the minds of some as to the truth of his death.

Mrs. Adelbert Cronkhite, wife of Major General Adelbert Cronkhite, commander of the 80th, division of the A. E. F. and mother of Major Alexander Cronkhite, killed at Camp Lewis by the accidental discharge of his own automatic while shooting at a target, according to the verdict of an army board of inquiry, started a personal investigation of the circumstances surrounding her son's death.

This necessitated long trips to various parts of the country, the interviewing of numbers of officers and men who had known her son and former captain Rosenberg, and the writing of hundreds of letters to men who might have even a remote knowledge of the tragedy at Camp Lewis the afternoon of October 23, 1918. She was aided in this work by General Cronkhite when he returned from France.

So energetically did Mrs. Cronkhite work that she was able to gather a mass of evidence. She turned this over to the department of justice together with the report of a number of experts. Mrs. Cronkhite had compiled to exhumate the body of her son and examine the wound. These experts reported that the major could not have inflicted the wound himself, either by accident or design. Major Cronkhite was right-handed and would have had great difficulty in shooting himself in the right arm in the manner in which the wound was inflicted, these experts claimed. The department of justice with this data in its possession, filed a second official board of inquiry into session, and for the second time a verdict of accidental death was rendered. Thus ending the second episode of the search for the slayer of Major Cronkhite.

The Cronkhite investigation extended well into 1919. Ostensibly her investigation ended with the verdict of the second board of inquiry. Actually it did not. Both Major General and Mrs. Cronkhite appeared tireless in their search for evidence which would convince the authorities that her son was murdered, and not hit by a weapon in his own hand, either accidentally or by design.

FIRST REAL SENSATION. It was in 1921 that the first real sensation was caused in the Cronkhite case as it came to be called in official army circles and among editors and the public generally. On March 17, 1921 Roland H. Pothier, former bugler sergeant, was arrested in the Auburn freight yards at Providence, R. I. He was jailed, and on March 19 it was learned that Pothier had confessed in full to the murder of Major Alexander Cronkhite.

der of Major Alexander Cronkhite. He pleaded guilty to a charge of involuntary manslaughter. Great mystery surrounded his arrest, a mystery seemingly as unexplainable as that surrounding the arrest of ex-Captain Robert P. Rosenberg in the Civic club in New York City March 23, 1921. Rosenberg apparently could shed no light upon the arrest of either Pothier or himself.

Then it was announced that Rosenberg was charged with the murder of Major Cronkhite at Camp Lewis in 1918. It was learned that in five affidavits Pothier charged that Rosenberg gave him an automatic a few days before the fatal practice march, and told him: "I want to get Major Cronkhite." According to Pothier's confession, no reason had been given by Rosenberg for the deed. Pothier said Rosenberg promised him immunity. Pothier went on to say in these affidavits, it was reported, that Cronkhite was some yards away from the column of troops setting a tobacco can on a bush as a target. Pothier said he slipped three shells into his automatic while the officer's attention was thus engaged, and fired one shot wild. Major Cronkhite turned, and as he did so, Pothier fired again striking the major in the right side, where, he said, Rosenberg had told him to shoot the major.

Just after he fired, Pothier said he heard a second shot, and Rosenberg came running up. He looked at the major and said "I think he's dead." The captain then drew his superior officer's body parallel with the roadside, and whipped out his automatic. Pothier said he noticed the flap was loosened, fired at the tobacco can.

"If anybody says anything, you say he shot himself while shooting at that can," Pothier said Rosenberg told him. This, according to Pothier, was the account not told at the board, hearing, where the major's death was declared to have been accidental.

A reason for Rosenberg's alleged action was given by a department of justice agent, who reported that Mrs. Cronkhite had discovered that Rosenberg, who was 24 years old and 16 years Rosenberg's junior, because Cronkhite had been severe in his attitude toward Rosenberg's low grade as an officer. Rosenberg, this report said, knew that Major Cronkhite was giving him his final test on the practice march, and had determined to make an end of him.

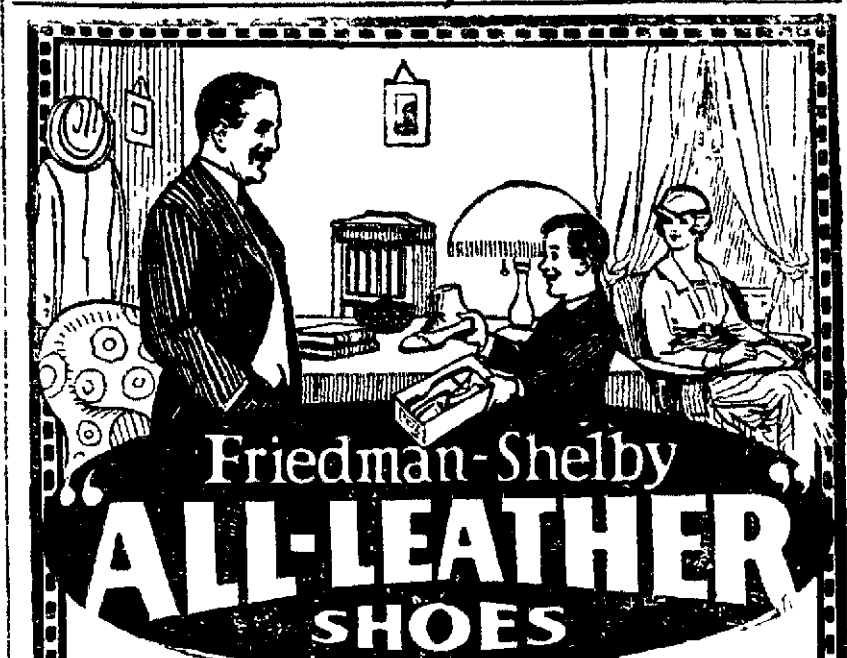

DENIED ENTIRE STORY. Rosenberg, when confronted with Pothier's confession denied the entire story, declaring that he and Cronkhite were good friends, and that the latter had been instrumental in bringing him, Rosenberg, to Camp Lewis from Camp Forrest, Ga., as a member of the 213th engineers, and had caused him to be placed at the head of Company D. Rosenberg said he was present at the time the major was killed, but that he had approached the spot with his column from an entirely different direction had halted this column 40 yards distant, and had moved forward alone to watch Cronkhite shoot.

Pothier, Rosenberg said, was standing near the major. "I got it, Rosy," Rosenberg said the major announced gleefully, as he came up, then, a moment later "My God, I'm shot," Rosenberg said he snatched at the officer as he fell, and for a moment did not realize he had been shot. He thought it might have been heart disease. Cronkhite was dead in two minutes, and his body was taken to the camp hospital.

Investigation of the murder charges against him. This Daugherty apparently did, with the aid of several operatives. On April 21, Senator Calder announced that Major Arnold had revealed to him that Pothier repudiated his confession of a month previous, and had been released on $10,000 bail. Pothier had declared both he and Rosenberg were innocent of any connection with the death of Cronkhite, according to Arnold.

Only July 16 Attorney General Daugherty announced that the charges against both Rosenberg and Pothier would be dropped by the government since he believed the federal government had no jurisdiction in the matter. His basis for this contention, it was announced, was that the spot where Cronkhite was killed was on land forming a part of the later military reservation but which had not, on October 25, 1918, been decided by the state to the United States government. Daugherty announced this contention later in a signed statement August 20, 1921. It was reported and turned over all data connected with the case to Prosecuting Attorney J. W. Selden of Pierce county, Washington as the officer having proper jurisdiction, since Cronkhite was killed on land which at that time belonged to Pierce county. Selden announced that he would not take action against two men with the evidence then in his possession, and there the matter seemed to rest. Apparently the case had been dropped and Rosenberg in a published statement July 18, 1921, deplored the fact that he had not been vindicated, and reiterated earlier statements that for some reason or other "some body had it in for him and was trying to get him."

TRIUMPHS OF M. JONQUELLE

By MELVILLE DAVISSON POST

THE MAN WITH STEEL FINGERS

Begin Hero Today
M. JONQUELLE, greatest of French detectives was ushered into the presence of the strange and fear-compelling LORD VALLEYS, the English-Serb who had just inherited the title and estates of his murdered uncle, Lord Winton.

Three lives had stood between the Lord Valleys and the wealth of his uncle. But both of Lord Winton's sons were killed in the great war. Only one, who married an American, left an heir and this heir's daughter was barred by English law from inheritance.

Then came the murder of Lord Winton and the inheritance of the estate by the strange, powerful and morose Lord Valleys.

Go on With the Story

CHAPTER II
"The murder of Lord Winton, the wise English authorities attributed to me," Lord Valleys continued coolly.

"They spared no effort to fix it upon me. That they were unable to do so is not, I think, attributable to this thing which you call Providence."

"It is attributed rather, I think, to the intelligence of my legal counsel and to myself."

He looked directly at Monsieur Jonquille. His big, placid face beamed, his voice was even and untroubled.

"I am not embarrassed to discuss it, monsieur," he continued. "When the war had ended with the death of Lord Winton's sons, I was, by virtue of what you have so aptly called 'the accident of birth,' next in succession to the title. I thought it both advisable and courteous to present myself to Lord Winton."

"Lord Winton was an eccentric person. As he grew older, and after the death of his sons, his eccentricity became more dominant. I did not find him on his estates at Levenscroft; he was at this time in London in a little old house which the family has always owned in a street toward Covent Garden."

"On the night that I called to Lord Winton, it was quite late. I found him alone in the house. He seemed disturbed to see me, but he was courteous, and I cannot complain of his welcome. He seemed, however, not to realize that I had grown into a man. He seemed to regard me as a queer, foreign lad to whom he owed some obligation of hospitality."

Lord Valleys stopped. He leaned a little forward in the chair, and his voice took on a firmer note.

"Monsieur," he said, "I am saying to you now a thing to which I testified at the English trial, and which was not believed. Lord Winton told me that he expected a person to call on him within a very few minutes and to remain for perhaps an hour. He asked me to return at the end of an hour. I got up to go. As I went down the stairs, a hansom, entering the street from the direction of the city, stopped before the door. The door was closed, but the sound was clearly audible."

"Lord Winton, who was behind me, came also down the steps. On a console in the hall were several candles which the servants, according to custom, had placed there. An idea came to Lord Winton, for he stopped me as my hand was on the door to go out. He took up one of these candles in a tall brass candlestick, and touching me on the arm, bared it to me."

"Instead of going out," he said, "suppose you go down into the wine-cellar. There should be some bottles of Burgundy of a famous year stored there by your grandfather. See if you can find them, and we shall have a glass of wine with our talk. I have a great deal to say to you, my nephew. The wine will sustain me."

"You will see, monsieur, that this idea that I was merely a grown-up lad, came to visit an ancient relative, was quite fixed with Lord Winton. As the servants had gone out, he was sending me, as though I were a lad from Eton, to find the wine for our conversation. He gave me the key, a direction about the stairs and doors. He even said there was a box of biscuits on the dining-room table which I should bring up. It was all, you see, monsieur, quite as though I were an undergraduate from some English public school."

The man looked down at his firm, placid hands resting upon his knees, and the arms of the chair in which he sat.

"This, monsieur," he said, "is a portion of my evidence which the English criminal court refused to believe. It was incredibly stupid!"

Monsieur Jonquille looked up sharply at that sentence.

"The English criminal court," he said, "was even more stupid than you imagine. It was as you have said, 'incredibly stupid.'"

Lord Valleys made no comment. "There was only my word for the statement," he said. "I could not prove it, and yet it was the truth."

The man was startled by Monsieur Jonquille's reply.

"One knew that, although one would have been brought to describe the evidence. It is preposterous," said Monsieur Jonquille.

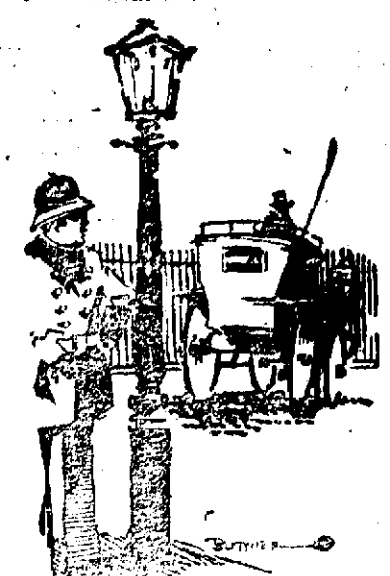

Lord Valleys looked steadily at the Prefect for a moment before he spoke.

"I regret, monsieur," he said, "that you were not present in that English court."

The man looked down again at his wonderful hands, steel strong, and as supple as silk; then he went on:

"It happened, however, that this chance, which you question in human affairs, came to my aid. One of the Metropolitan police on duty on this night in the neighborhood of Covent Garden saw a hansom drive away from Lord Winton's door. The time, as nearly as could be fixed, corresponded with the hour which I had indicated in my testimony. And for the first time in the course of the criminal trial, the case for the Crown was shaken. Neither my solicitors nor the Crown were able to discover anything further. The driver of the hansom could not be located, and the one who called that night upon Lord Winton remained a mystery."

Lord Valleys continued to speak deliberately and without emotion.

SAW A HANSON DRIVE AWAY FROM LORD WINTON'S DOOR.

"I do not know who this person with whom Lord Winton had a midnight appointment, could have been, and I do not know what occurred at that mysterious conference, except, of course, the resultant tragedy, which was afterward known to everyone."

"I took the candle which Lord Winton gave me and went along the hall to the stairway, which descended into the basement of the home. I had in my hand the key to the wine-cellar."

"The last I saw of Lord Winton in his life was his tall, bowed back as he stooped to open the door, his hand on the latch. He seemed a sort of heavy, shadow outlined against the door in the dim light of the gas-jet that burned feebly, lighting the hall behind him."

He made a vague gesture, lifting one of his hands softly from the arm of the chair.

"Here, monsieur, chance or my intelligence failed me. If I had remained a moment—if, in fact, I had looked back as I went down the stairway at the end of the hall, I should have seen Lord Winton's assassin."

The Prefect of Police made no comment, and Lord Valleys continued:

"After some little difficulty, I finally found the door of the wine-cellar, opened it and entered. It was very old—one of those huge stone cells which the early English built in their houses in which to store the choice wines of France."

"It seemed to me that this wine-cellar had not been entered in a long time. I was not mistaken in this impression. Fortunately for me, it had, from time to time, been looked into by Lord Winton's manservant. I have said 'fortunately' because this manservant, Stanley, was able to confirm my statement."

"The whole of the low vault was cluttered with straw, piled and heaped with it, like a farmer's rick. It was this aspect of the place that gave me the impression that it had not been entered for a long time. And it was true it had not been disturbed for a long time. The walls and the floor of this cellar were stone; the ceiling was of wood crossed with beams dried out like tinder, and the bins, as I have said, were heaped with the straw in which innumerable wine-casks had been packed."

"Lord Winton had described the wine which he wished so that I could not mistake it. But he was not certain in which bin it was to be found, and I had to make a search of very nearly the whole of the cellar. This did not disturb me, for Lord Winton had fixed an hour as the length of the visit of the person whom he expected, and who, in fact, had arrived. And I was not to return until that time. It was, as nearly as I can determine, about eleven o'clock of the night when I went down the steps to the wine-cellar."

The man remained silent a moment as if in some contemplation. Finally he continued:

"An unfortunate accident occurred. In rising from a bin over which I had been stooped, the candle touched a wisp of straw hanging from above, and immediately the dried-out, half-rotten wood of the beamed ceiling flashed into flame."

He paused again.

"I was appalled, but I did not lose my sense of necessity. I undertook to put the fire out. I made a desperate effort against it, there in that underground cell, for I knew the house must burn if this whole wood ceiling took fire. The place filled with smoke. It became very nearly impossible to breathe, but I did not give up the fight against the fire. Finally when I was blinded, choked and very nearly unconscious, I broke open the door leading from the basement of the house and ran out into the street. It seemed that I should never breathe, and I continued to run."

"You know what followed. I was taken up by one of the Metropolitan police, the burning house was entered, and Lord Winton brought out. He was dead! The small blade of a knife had been driven into his body low down on the right side. The wound, ranging upward, was deep: It had severed a vital artery."

The final installment of this thrilling mystery will appear in our Sunday issue.

The Queen of Hearts

BY OLIVE ROBERTS HARTON

The Twins crawled along the old man's beard, right through the sky from Mars to Jupiter.

They were searching still for Mother Goose's broom.

When they arrived, they unhooked the end of the old man's beard from the star point where it had caught when he threw it, and the last they saw of him, he was winding it up again on his garden-hose wheel.

"Thank you!" called Nancy and Nick, waving their hands.

"You're welcome!" answered the old man waving back to them.

Jupiter was a queer place, just as queer as Mars, but much bigger. The children looked around curiously.

Suddenly someone came toward them, running as fast as he could. When he saw them he stopped suddenly and put his hands behind his back.

"Where're you?" he demanded.

"Nancy and Nick," answered the little boy quickly. "I know who you are. I can tell by your hat. You're the Knave of Hearts and you've stolen the queen's tarts. You've got them now."

Just then the queen herself came running up, all out of breath, her crown on one side of her head and her kitchen apron untied. "Oh, you rascal!" she cried. "Give me those tarts at once. I made them for my tea party this afternoon, for King Cole and the King and Queen of Spades. The poor things get so tired of bread and honey. I thought I'd give them a treat. And now you've stolen two!"

The Knave of Hearts looked guilty and handed them over.

"And now, my dears, what are you after?" asked the good queen.

"Mother Goose's broom!" said Nancy. "She's lost it."

"I wish I had it this very minute," declared the queen, looking at her son sternly.

CHECKUP OF VOTE IS UNDER WAY

Error in Coroner Count Impels General Tabulation

BELIEVE ERRORS ARE MANY

Members of Election Board See Need of Action

That possibly other election contests may develop as the result of finding a 10 vote mistake in the count on coroner, is admitted by Joseph M. Madigan, chief deputy supervisor of elections for Allen Co.

The unofficial count this year, according to Madigan, contained so many errors as to be practically worthless. There may be, he believes, other mistakes yet undiscovered that when brought to light may change the results materially.

A thorough checkover of the returns is being made by the election board, to learn if any other races will be affected.

CANVASS TREASURER VOTE

One of the first votes checked over was that of N. W. Basinger, Democrat, and Harry E. Botkin, Republican, for county treasurer. Botkin was winner on the face of the returns with a margin of 45 votes to the good. The vote stood Botkins, 9,705; Basinger, 9,660.

The returns have been checked over, it was stated Friday, and found to be correct. Unless a formal recount is demanded, the board will not take action.

The finding of 10 additional votes in Precinct B, Ward 2, Delphos, Thursday noon, for Dr. Frank Smith over as coroner for two years.

As a result, everyone is satisfied.

the election board escapes the bother of a law suit; Dr. Adams, who made no contest for the job, escapes serving another term; Dr. Smith, who made a thoro canvass to win, gets the place he wanted.

Dr. Smith will assume office January 1.

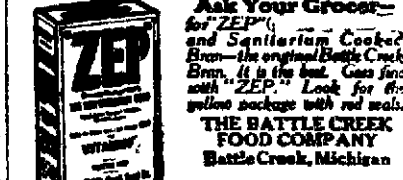

PATIENT RECOVERING

Mrs. Joseph Stumpf, Delphos, who underwent an operation at St. Rita's hospital in Lima Thursday, is recuperating nicely.

RESOLUTIONS ARE PRESENTED

New Institution for Feeble-Minded Sought by Women.

LAW ENFORCEMENT URGED

Federated Clubs' Afternoon Session to Complete Reports

Resolutions calling upon members of the Northwestern Ohio Federated Women's clubs, to urge the construction of a new institution for the feeble minded, by the state, and to take action to formulate public opinion into unqualified law enforcement, were presented Friday afternoon at the convention being held here, in the Market Street Presbyterian church.

A complete explanation of both resolutions, preceded by a discussion of the work of her committee, was given by Mrs. Charles Halter, Fremont, chairman of the legislative committee.

She then presented the resolutions for the consideration of the assembled delegates.

The first was directed to the president of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs. She is instructed by it to urge Governor Davis and the department of Public Welfare to take immediate steps to establish the desired institution.

PLEDGE ASKED
The second required all members of the Northwestern Ohio Federated clubs to pledge themselves to promote sentiment for law enforcement.

Mrs. Halter called attention to the liquor conditions prevailing over the country, in explanation of the provisions of the second resolution. She explained that since prohibition is now a part of the United States constitution, it is up to every good citizen to see to it that it is rigidly enforced.

The presentation of the resolutions occupied the larger part of the afternoon program.

This was the first time on the program, immediately after the gathering of the delegates for the afternoon session.

Luncheon in the dining rooms of the church divided the morning session from the afternoon meeting.

Nearly two hundred delegates had assembled by the time the afternoon meeting was called to order.

In addition to the presentation and passage of the resolutions, the afternoon program includes added committee reports which were not given during the morning because of the lack of time. This order of business is expected to conclude the convention program.

ADDRESS A FEATURE
The feature address of the morning session was that delivered by Mrs. Charles Fox, vice-president of the Ohio Federation, who substituted for Mrs. Cornelius S. Solover, Cleveland, who was unable to be present because of illness.

Mrs. Fox, whose address was marked by clever use of figurative language, compared herself to the extra fire on an automobile. "Allways necessary, always present, and always ready in case of emergency," she said as she explained her presence on the program in place of Mrs. Solover.

"This big work we do," she said in summarizing the activities of the Ohio Federation, "is made possible by a tremendous federation reaching over the entire state; a high powered machine assembled with a great diversity of parts. Every part is essential and necessary to the whole, even down to the nut, and sometimes we find some pretty nutty ones, too. But they are necessary and must be given consideration in the general scheme of things. We need shock absorbers which dispose of many of the things which might otherwise prove disastrous.

"Above all, our central interest must be in what we feed the machine. We want no mediocre stuff. The mileage we get will be dependent upon the quality of the gasoline we use."

EXECUTIVE'S MESSAGE
Mrs. Fox's address was in the nature of a message to the convention from the executive. She very convincingly pointed out that the federation has become a powerful organization which is daily demonstrating its soundness by its many accomplishments.

Her address was preceded by the welcome given by Mrs. Beecher Moke, president of the Lima federation.

There are a series of facts marking the highway of human history and like the summit in a great mountain system is the achievement of woman for success," she told the delegates while offering them the best Lima club women can give to their visitors.

Short addresses by chairman of committees were heard following Mrs. Fox's talk, which was the principal address of the morning.

"Community service," and the work participated in by the federation was discussed and reported by Mrs. S. W. Amann, Sidney. This particular department of the organization touches the heart of things as no other department does. Mrs. Amann pointed out, "It reaches all women thru its democratic efforts," she declared.

She voiced an appeal for a continuance of the work of the branch and urged broadening of its department to include towns, cities and villages not yet reached.

"Every club should have its own committee on community service," she said. "That many of the Ohio clubs are writing in for information shows a desire for something definite and concrete, which might be done. It is a good omen."

ILLITERACY FIGURES
Mrs. John H. Berry, Athens, gave some surprising figures on illiteracy in this state and suggested remedies for conditions now existing. The federation can do much, she said, to aid the situation.

"The club woman of today is making the world a better place for men, women and children," she declared. A discussion of the loan scholarship problem closed the morning session.

UNIVERSITY "GRADS" TO BANQUET ON "OHIO STATE DAY" LINDEMAN PLANS

Ohio State University "Grads" will gather around the banquet table the evening of December 8 to celebrate annual "Ohio State Day."

In every county in Ohio and in many of the cities and towns throughout the United States and foreign countries other groups will be meeting at the same time, to revive their college spirit.

A campaign has been started by Richard Lindeman, Delphos, president of the county organization, to make the event one of the best ever staged in Allen-co and to obtain practically 100 per cent attendance.

Following the banquet at the Hotel Argonne a radiohone will be placed in operation, making it possible for the Lima group to be in touch with the university station at Columbus.

Plans are being laid to have every group listening in and to have cheering in the old style, led over the radio by "Johnnie" Greps, Lima, who has been cheer leader of the Ohio cohorts for several years.

Following the concert program by the glee clubs and orchestras, there will be several addresses, including a short talk by President W. O. Coffey.

FOUR CHARGED WITH DRY ACT VIOLATION

CLEVELAND — Joseph B. Diner of the Diner Specialty Company; Louis Limbert, brother of Abraham, who was indicted in connection with the Auerbach "million dollar alcohol conspiracy"; John Roe and Richard Roe were indicted by the federal grand jury here today on charges of violation of the federal prohibition laws.

It is alleged in the indictment that Diner applied for the prohibition commission on July 1, 1921, for a permit to manufacture Diner bitter wine, hair tonic and other preparations; that a permit was granted July 7, 1922, to use alcohol in making the various preparations and that ten drums of alcohol were delivered from the Federal Products Company.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY BUILDING ASSOCIATION
COLUMBUS — At the closing session of the Ohio Building Association league Thursday, the Ohio blue sky department was praised for the work it had been doing, but the league's members decided revision of the state laws was necessary to afford investors further protection.

The following officers were elected: J. P. McCullough, Columbus, president; Fred T. Bristol, Mansfield, vice president; E. M. Baugher, Newark, second vice president; James A. Devine, Columbus, secretary; and C. J. Parrish, Hamilton, treasurer.

EMBARGO LAID ON FREIGHT TO EAST

Order, Second in Month, Hits Lima Shippers

Freight movement east of Lima on the Pennsylvania railroad is completely tied up by a strict embargo ordered. The embargo hits positively all freight destined for points east of Columbus or Mansfield. The only exception is livestock and perishable food-stuffs, it is stated.

The embargo, which is the second to be placed within the past month, is due, according to W. W. Crooks, local freight agent, to the abnormally big business of the last month.

East of Columbus and Mansfield, the railroad has been unable to avoid congestion and the order will hold until yards farther east are cleared, it was asserted.

Business in Lima over the Pennsylvania lines is said to be the largest in the history of the local office. More freight was being shipped prior to the embargo than ever before and a considerable percent was being forwarded to the East.

Conditions to the west are said to be in fine shape and there is very little possibility of an embargo being placed on western shipments.

Local officials were unable to predict the duration of the freight holdup and stated that it might be cancelled this week or next month, as far as they can tell.

EXPENSE ACCOUNT SHOWS ORGANIZED EFFORT MADE AGAINST TAX, LEVY, BONDS

That an organized effort was made to defeat the two mill tax levy and bond issues for fair and school purposes in the November 7 election was disclosed by the filing of an expense account by J. R. Higgins, 468 S. Central-av, Friday.

The account filed by Higgins shows that he and Alice Meyers received the sum of $38 for distributing literature opposed to the two mill levy and the bond issues. The report does not disclose the source of receipt of the fund.

KIWANIANS DISCUSS CITY PARK PLAN FOR DELPHOS

Plans for improvement of Delphos park were discussed Thursday night at a meeting of the Kiwanis public affairs committee in the neighboring city. No definite conclusions were reached, but a tentative outline of steps that will be taken the coming winter to secure funds was talked over.

Equipment of the park with playground essentials, beautifying of the northeast section for use as a tourist center and laying out of a driveway thru the grounds will be included in the program.

It is planned to build a driveway that will connect Lima-av, on the route of the Harding highway, with Pierce-st. Improvement of an alley leading from Pierce to Franklin-st will afford a continuation of the drive.

Erection of a large arch at the entrance of the tourist section is proposed. Members of the committee are: L. C. Landick, W. J. Steinle, A. J. Lang, A. C. Weger, C. L. Leilich, E. Davis, B. L. Jauman and Syl Githouse.

WARMER TONIGHT; RAIN SATURDAY

More rain is the forecast for the day. Just as the populace generally was congratulating itself that the weatherman was getting on his good behavior, a rain storm comes the warning forecast of added moisture.

Cloudy, warmer tonight, with probable showers in extreme west portion. Saturday showers and warmer in south-east portions.

However, it's alright. That sort of thing is only to be expected at this period of the year. We ought to be thankful that it isn't a snow prediction.

Ted has a rainstick handy, ready for whatever may occur on the morning, in the way of a downpour of showers, whatever it may be, if anything.

Rabbit hunters believe that a little rain will help their game, too. Bunnies run better and more often when the ground is wet and rabbit hounds pick up the scent more easily.

So, if everybody's satisfied, why let it rain.

NEW PASTOR FOR CONGREGATIONAL

Rev. Lindbeck of Ft. Recovery to Succeed Rev. Booth

A minister who has been honored by being elected to the council of the village where he has been preaching will soon be welcomed to a Lima church.

Rev. Arthur F. Lindbeck, who will preach his first sermon at the First Congregational church, S. Elizabeth-st, Sunday morning, is the man. He is a duly elected member of the Ft. Recovery village council and was a leader in civic activities there.

Before preaching at Ft. Recovery and accepting a call to the Lima church Rev. Lindbeck was pastor of the First Congregational church at Ridgeville, Ind., and of the Pacific Congregational church of Chicago. His wife and four children will come to Lima in a few weeks.

Welcoming services at the Congregational church will be held at 10:30 a. m. Sunday morning. Rev. Lindbeck's subject will be, "The Ministering Master."

Rev. Lindbeck succeeds Rev. Kyle Booth.

POLICE CHIEF WITHDRAWS HIS PLEA OF GUILTY
YOUNGSTOWN — Police Sergeant Charles Myers, suspended in connection with an investigation of alleged gambling resorts here, today withdrew a plea of guilty which he made when his hearing opened yesterday.

Myers says he misunderstood the nature of the charges against him. Police Captain A. T. Jenkins also is under suspension. Mayor W. C. Reese, who as president of council became mayor when George L. Oles resigned, declared today that he will not resign.

OFFICIALS PROBE "WHITE OWLS"

Believed Back of Move Against Mexicans, Negroes

BRECKENRIDGE, Tex.—(United Press) — The mystic "White Owls" a new organization of terror of the southwest, believed responsible for an exodus of Mexicans and negroes, was under investigation today as a result of the federal government's action.

City, county and state officials sought leaders of the new secret society, for questioning after asking Governor Pat Neff to provide protection for Mexican citizens, said to have been threatened with mole deportations.

"The 'White Owls' declare fight for white labor, according to a report by a member of the group, who was driven out, while 2 laborers would receive big wages. It is my theory that the thing probably centers in a real agitator who are up followers for ulterior motives of their own," Mayor Fulwiler day.

"I have a hundred speculators ready to furnish protection Mexicans and negroes also need it, but I do not believe will be any further trouble. We are going to thoroughly investigate this organization; find its leaders and what it poses are, and whether it of the order are in conflict state and national constitution find the organization do these things that are in violation of the law. I will use every means to destroy it."

RAILWAY MERGER BEFORE I. C. C.

Hearings on Proposed Consolidation Held

WASHINGTON.—(United Press).

Consolidation of the railroads of the country into a few great regional systems, believed by many authorities to be the only solution of present difficulties, was before the interstate commerce commission today.

Hearings commenced on the proposed consolidation of the Northern Pacific with the Burlington, and the Great Northern with the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, to be known respectively as systems 14 and 15.

The commission has previously held hearings on the consolidations of roads in southeastern United States.

Today's hearings, as were previous ones, are being held under the authority of the transportation act of 1920. They are to bring out whether the roads involved are willing to submit to the grouping proposed by the commission and to develop what opposition exists to its plan.

Recent reports from St. Paul, stronghold of the hill interests, indicated that the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific, so called hill roads, would interpose before the commission a counter-plea to be permitted to consolidate with the Burlington. Such a consolidation would realize the dream of the late James J. Hill, founder of the first two named roads and railroad wizard of the northwest.

Officials here, however, doubt that this plea will be allowed. The transportation act prescribed that the consolidations proposed by the commission must preserve competitions in the regions where they were effective. In drafting systems 14 and 15, the commission has endeavored to achieve two great competing lines to serve the northern states of the west. It is pointed out that a grouping such as it is reported the roads desire would encompass virtually the entire facilities of that section of the country and eliminate competition.

SEE-SAWING FOR SEVEN DAYS IN GOTHAM

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)

MR. JAMES W. DEAN, our New York correspondent, has been hobnobbing around with play-folk in the city again this week, and begs to give you a few impressions of what and who he saw. So—

"New York—Saw Harold Lloyd, Gaylord Lloyd, his brother and Joe Reddy, his major domo. They're planning now for a comedy that will not be released until a year hence. They're disciples of preparedness. . . . Saw 'The 49ers,' a stage review sponsored by various recognized humorists in a smart alley mood. This play brings May Irwin back to Broadway after an absence of seven years. . . . Saw Bebe Daniels. She was again wearing black. . . . Saw Anita Naldi. She almost always wears black. . . . Saw 'The Educator,' 'Crash' and 'Fitter Hatter,' film comedies that drive dull care away, but only for the time watching them. . . . Saw Ruddy Valentino in 'The Young Rajah.' If he were allowed to show his acting ability more and his posing less his popularity would be more enduring. . . . Saw Ahmed Abdullah's new book, 'Alien Souls.' He paints word pictures in vivid hues. I like best the chapter, 'The Soul of a Turk.' . . . Saw 'Up She Goes' which contains more of a story than most musical comedies. That, because Frank Craven wrote the book of it. . . . Saw Betty Compton and Bert Lytell in 'To Have and To Hold,' better than the average film. Saw Arthur Maude who devises photodramas from famous paintings. He lets the spectator see behind the canvas, as it were, what inspired the genius of the brush. Maude believes the average person is a lover of beauty. Amen, say I. . . . Saw Jeanne Eagles in 'It Ain't Stormy Drama.' It puts Jeanne right in her element. Her attack is swift, sure and furious. One might call her the welterweight champ of the dramatic area. . . . Saw 'The Village Blacksmith,' a celluloid drama based on Longfellow's poem. It's one of those movies calculated to make the spectator happy by making him, or her, cry. . . . Saw a sign on Times Square which reads 'Coronado City, the Paradise of California, Where Mountains and Ocean Meet.' Broadway seems a mighty small, insignificant place after turning that phrase over several times.

Beauty, Wit, Melody, All In One Show

HERE is a splendid melange of beauty and talent, offered from the stage of the Famous Opera House as one of the most complete and diverting programs of Keith vaudeville yet seen this season. There is harmony, unselfish gaiety and feminine allure in prodigious measure, each of the five acts vying with each other to win your favor.

Starting at the start—the charming Misses O'Neal, in little-girl frocks and bows, completely wins your heart with their rendition of Irving Berlin's 'Schoolhouse Blues,' followed up by other delightful numbers. Accompanied on the baby grand by Mr. Jerry Benson, song writer and syncopator, their act stands out as one of the bright spots of the program.

Messrs. Cervo and Moro, novelty musicians, play marvelously the violin and accordion, their program ranging from grand opera to latest jazz hits. Both are musicians to their fingertips and their selections ingeniously beautiful. But why, oh why, Mr. Cervo (or Mr. Moro), didn't you play a violin solo? Really, ev-

Miss Dalton and Mr. Holt—In One Offering

REAL seven literature has been made of Edward Sheldon's story, 'On the High Seas,' which presents Dorothy Dalton and Jack Holt in personable roles. Only we like our Dorothy so well that we hate to see her assigned to a part that makes her out an utterly useless, and unnecessary member of society, a regular addressee (don't look up that word in the dictionary because it isn't there). However, remember that she isn't a snob in real life, and just HAD to do it because the producers told her to.

The story? About a wealthy young society queen who permits a good looking young stoker to make love to her, because under the circumstances he is the only one handy to do it, and who completely ignores him when among 'her own people.' Of course the stoker isn't a stoker at all, but a rich young man who had gone out in search of adventure and who found all he had looked for, and more.

There's a wonderfully realistic shipwreck in the production (never having been shipwrecked, I know as much about them) and the supporting cast does good work. Nothing particularly the work of Otto Brower, as Lieut. Gray. He's a new face to me, and from now on we mean to keep our eagle eye on him. Winter Hall, as usual, does commendable work.

Mr. Holt is the same handsome, likable chap, the perfect movie hero. In this case, however, the heroine doesn't seem worthy of his everlasting love and devotion, which she eventually wins, naturally.

With you'd go to see 'On the High Seas' and give me your opinion of it.

At the Quilna again today and Saturday.

Dual Role Given to Herbert Rawlinson In This One

THE players and not the plot make 'Another Man's Shoes' the interesting film that it is. Look who you have with you—Herbert Rawlinson, Josef Swickard, Barbara Bedford and Lillian Langdon, not to mention divers others who create atmosphere and minor parts. Mr. Rawlinson, you will remember, is no slouch on the screen, and in 'Another Man's Shoes' he makes every minute count.

The title indicates that the parts of two men are portrayed by one player. Correct, she said. Victor Britches wrote the novel from which the film was made. The plot will not be divulged, but it intimately concerns a man who is destined by Fate to meet a horrible death of some kind at the hands of a band of cutthroats. However, another is engaged to assume his identity and the plot gets quite complicated. The love element is furnished by a circling princess of small kingdom in Europe somewhere.

What transpires from now on you must see for yourselves. All of the acting is good, the direction is pretty fair and there is no kick coming about the photography.

Quite likely you'll enjoy 'Another Man's Shoes,' non est?

At the Lyric again today and Saturday.

Hal Kiter Scores a Hit

THE famous cartoon characters of the cartoon 'The Dingbat Family' are well portrayed by the Billy Allen Co. at the New Orpheum this week-end, where the final offering of the company is being given. Mr. Hal Kiter, featured comedian, fairly out-kitsers himself in 'The Dingbat,' while Miss Pearl Stevens as Mary and Alice Meade.

Laura La Plant, She's the heroine of 'The Perils of the Yukon,' a serial film and is now working with William Desmond in 'Around the World in 18 Days,' another serial thriller.

Among the song numbers which were most enthusiastically received were 'Bubbleland' and 'I Want a Boy,' while Peggy Hart, in a new entrancing dance number, pleased mightily.

The program will continue in effect until Sunday, when an entirely new organization will take the place of the Allen Co., which has held forth at the New Orpheum for five consecutive weeks, a record for any one company.

Winter now is coming on.
We feel it in the breeze.
And we have some hockey if we only had some freeze.

New York.—Pancho Villa, American flyweight champion, won a 15-round decision from Abe Goldstein, New York bantamweight, in a slow and uninteresting bout.

Lowell, Mass.—Abe Friedman, Boston, won the New England bantamweight championship by taking a ten-round decision from Steve Castle, Lawrence, Mass.

Cambridge, Mass.—After a trial of six weeks, Frank T. Muller, Philadelphia, trainer of Jack Kelly, the world's champion sculler, has been named rowing coach at Harvard for 1923.

Washington, D. C.—Washington and Jefferson College has adopted the rule prohibiting the use of freshmen in varsity athletics and limiting an athlete to three years' participation in sport, the faculty announced. It will become effective in 1924.

New Haven, Conn.—Two thousand Yale students gathered at the station here today and gave Captain Jordan and his football squad a rousing send off when they departed for Trenton, N. J. Despite faculty orders not to leave until tonight, hundreds of Yale rowers started their exodus last night.

Sprained right thumb forces Jimmy Jones of Youngstown to postpone his date to fight the now welter champ, Mickey Walker, 10 rounds at Pittsburg Thanksgiving week.

Soccer football is added to list of sports for women at Delaware, O. College.

Sandusky fight show has been postponed from Friday to November 22 with Chalky Winter and Eddie Ketchel in main bout.

HOPPE STILL LEADING

NEW YORK.—With two victories and no defeats, Jack Selinger, present champion and Willie Hoppe, former title holder, are still leading the international field in the world's billiard championship tournament.

Hoppe kept his slate clean last night by defeating Walker Cochran 500 to 160 for an average of 55.5. Hoppe's high run was 132.

Edmond Horemans, Belgian champion, defeated Erich Hagelacker, German champion, 500 to 201.

In today's matches, Roger Conti, the French champion, will play Hagelacker and Schaeffer will oppose Horemans.

"Pro" Matches Frowned Upon

NEW YORK.—Indications today were that some sort of a formal protest will be made to the professional golfers' association when it convenes in this city next Monday, to the suggestion made last week by the United States Golf Association, that "for the good of the game" professional golf matches adorned with fancy purses be curtailed.

At least this will happen, it was said, if the "pros" of the metropolitan district can be convinced that the United States Golf Association "was in earnest" in bettering high purses for exorbitant matches are more than a caddy's dream.

It seems the general opinion of the rank and file, said Ernest Anderson, the G. P. A. secretary, "that the protest should be made in a paper entitled, 'Purses I Have Heard About.'"

SOUTH COMPLETES CAGE PROGRAM

An easy and short schedule was announced by South high Thursday for its cage team.

The scarcity and low ability of the scheduled opponents is because of the fact that a single floor, it was said by Faculty Manager Graham.

The schedule, which will in all probability be added to, includes:

Dec. 22—Van Wert at Van Wert.
Jan. 5—Bluffton at South.
Jan. 12—Bucyrus at South.
Jan. 19—Van Wert at South.
Jan. 26—Bluffton at Bluffton.
Feb. 2—Central at Central.
Feb. 9—Open.
Feb. 16—Central at South.

STAGE IS SET FOR FOOTBALL SEMI-FINAL CENTRAL READY

(By MERRICK M. HILL)

The semi-final clash of the pigskin world in Lima will hold the attention of all sport lovers Saturday when Central High gridriders take the field with Springfield High as opponents.

With the approach of the 1923 football year, interest in football is growing more intense and more fans are expected to attend Saturday's contest than have witnessed a Central game at any time previous.

And indications point to a battle—a battle of brains and brawn. Central and Springfield are very evenly matched as regards weight and, while the Red and Green coterie have slightly the best of advance dope, Coach Thibert is expecting his huskies to show more fighting spirit than they have been producing.

The eleven will be aided by a bunch of rooters, who have sworn to outlast any aggregation of rooters in the state. Mass meetings have been held at Central high during the past few weeks and more enthusiasm and men have been developed among the supporters of the team than was thought possible.

Coaching authorities at Central expect the eleven to continue to show improvement over earlier games. The change from the ragged bewildered style of play at the first of the year has given way to a well-organized system of attack.

In fact, the improvement in the Red and Green play during the year is one of the points which will make Central a formidable foe on Thanksgiving Day. From a bunch of comparatively raw recruits Central has emerged into a creditable high school eleven.

The low score last Saturday against Piqua will prove a powerful stimulus for Captain Pettit's cohorts, who feel they have the ability to defeat overwhelmingly some well-thought-of eleven.

Central authorities have done much to promote interest in the gridiron game by providing coaching and games between inter-class teams. Athletic Director Dietrich has devoted a large amount of time and effort to guiding class teams and his efforts have produced valuable aids to Central's squad.

The biggest benefit received from this policy is the unusually large number of second-string men who are always on the sidelines, eager, ready, anxious to get into the game and who are up to the least motion of the coach and into the battle, relieving a team mate who shows signs of being unable to withstand the onslaught of the opposition.

Central will have three complete backfields at the Springfield game, every man familiar with the signals and every man hoping to get into the game. It is estimated that the various sets of backs will be sent into the game Saturday in order to watch their effectiveness against a formidable opponent.

South, which played its last home game against Troy a week ago, left at noon Friday for Canton, where they will endeavor to add McKinley scalp to their collection.

EXPECT TO WIN

This is the last battle for Captain Vineyard's crew before the Central contest and they expect to put every effort into Saturday's contest.

Canton McKinley is rated high among the teams in the Northeastern section of the state and expect to win from the Blue and Gold. However, South demonstrated in the Cleveland Heights fracas that they play harder and immeasurably better against stiff opposition than against a mediocre team; and this fact tends to the belief that the game will be one of the most thrilling affairs staged in Canton during the season.

After Saturday's battles, Central will polish off the season's training against St. Mary's a week from Saturday.

After the flood of touchdowns at St. Mary's comes the deluge—the deluge of dyed-in-the-wool football fans to the gridiron when:

Central beats South!!

Or—
South beats Central!!

Take your choice. Both are teams to be proud of and the game promises to be a wonderful exhibition of football knowledge, brains, brawn and clean sportsmanship.

MIAMI STUDENTS STUDY GOLF

CINCINNATI.—Following the example set by Miami University classes in golf for women will be inaugurated at the University of Cincinnati beginning Monday. The rudiments of the game will be taught in the gymnasium and as soon as the fundamentals are taught the fair sex, they will be matched for trials over the public links. Miami is said to be the first university to add golf to its list of sports for women.

APEX GRIDRIDERS TO PLAY SIDNEY

Lima Apex football team will put up a strong argument against the American Legion team at Sidney Sunday afternoon and they expect to come thru the fray with flying colors.

The local team has been practicing hard all week and have made great improvement in their knowledge of signals and team play. Manager Ayres has called a meeting of the team at 7 p. m. Friday night at the Knights of Columbus building and all players are asked to attend the meeting.

Negotiations are on for a new bout between Lou Breckett and Georges Carpentier at London early next year.

Three Leading Champions Of The Links

(By BILLY EVANS)

Youth reigns supreme in golf. When Glenna Collett won the recent women's national championship over the White Sulphur Springs course her victory rounded out the triumvirate of youthful national golf champions, Gene Sarazen, Jesse Sweetser and Glenna Collett.

Gene Sarazen, who has just turned 21, was the first to break into the spotlight of golfdom. Sarazen, by his remarkable victory at Chicago over one of the greatest fields ever gathered together in a national tourney, produced the greatest golfing upset of the season.

Sarazen's victory was first regarded in the nature of a fluke. He had a good day and more than his share of golfing luck, said the experts. However, it didn't take Sarazen long to prove that he was more than a mere flash.

SARAZEN NO MORE FLASH

When he won the honors in the professional golfers' tourney, and later followed it up by decisively defeating Walter Hagen in a special match, Sarazen proved that he was justly entitled to be ranked the greatest golfer of the year.

Sarazen's victory over Hagen really established him more firmly in golfing circles than his two other great wins. He met Hagen in the world series of golf and after trailing him for 36 holes he came from behind to win.

Jesse Sweetser, who won the national amateur honors by defeating the great "Chick" Evans in the finals, scored a victory that was almost as sensational as that of Sarazen when he beat the country's best.

Sweetser was born April 18, 1902, which means that he has yet to cast his first vote. Sweetser is a student at Yale. In 1920 he won the inter-collegiate golfing triumph.

SCORED A GREAT TRIUMPH

In many ways even more remarkable than the triumphs of Sarazen and Sweetser was that of Glenna Collett in winning the national women's championship.

Only a 19-year-old girl, pitted against the game's greatest players, she upset the dope of the critics by playing consistent golf that couldn't be denied.

The final match certainly had an international flavor. Miss Collett being paired with Mrs. W. A. Gavin, one of Great Britain's leading players, who has enjoyed a much wider experience as a golfer.

When asked for her golfing formula so that all women golfers might be enlightened thereby, Miss Collett simply said:

"I don't know how to account for my success other than that I love the game. Some folks take to golf like a duck to water, they seem to have a natural aptitude for it. Perhaps it is so in my case. That explains part of my success, the major portion of it is due to the efforts of my instructor, Mr. Alex Smith."

(By BOB McMILLIN)

It is a recognized fact that the efficiency of any organization depends largely upon its morale.

A wise football coach is aware of this fact and he tries to secure this harmony and co-operation among his men by various methods.

The Centre College team is very appropriately dubbed the "Fighting, crying, praying, Kentucky Colonials."

I think that these three adjectives explain why Centre has been so successful in athletics.

Centre players go into every contest with tears in their eyes, and a lump in their throat, each player saying, "Come on brother, let's give them a good one!"

A team possessing that kind of spirit is pretty hard to beat.

In 1917, just before our game with the University of Kentucky, an amusing, but touching incident happened. We had assembled in the locker room as was our custom before each game; just after "Chief" Myers had concluded one of his masterful talks he said that he would like for some one to lead a short prayer.

Bob Mathias, with tears streaming down his cheeks, jumped to his feet and said: "Let me pray."

And you never heard a man make such a prayer as Bob did on that occasion. Not that we should win the game, but that we should be protected from injury and play in a clean, gentlemanly manner, not as individuals, but as a band of brothers.

That is a good example of the emotion manifested before we went into a game.

There were many expressions we used during the course of a game and which were original with us and served to keep up our morale.

Just before the snapping signal was called the interirer would say to the man carrying the ball, "Follow me, brother, carry the mail."

Other expressions that were constantly used during the game were "Let's go down town," "Round the horn"—meaning an end run, and "Strut your stuff."

Because we had a short prayer before each game some of our opponents thoughtlessly tried to make sport of this custom which we held sacred.

I remember several years ago an incident that happened between one of our games with Georgetown College of Kentucky. The students of that college had distributed handbills which read something like this: "Come out early and hear Bo pray."

The college authorities learned of this act and had the bills destroyed before they got very far. It was just an act of some thoughtless student and no reflection on the college.

FRAZEE PLANS TO PROTEST CHANGE IN OPENING

NEW YORK.—An eleventh hour change in the American League baseball schedule for 1923, impends if Harry H. Frazee, owner of the Boston Red Sox, can make good on a promised protest against opening the season with the Yanks at the new Yankee stadium Tuesday April 17.

Frazee, who departed last night for Boston, said he had been informed unofficially of the opening date and that if the report were true, he intended to complain vigorously against starting the season on a Tuesday.

Frazee pointed out that a Tuesday opening meant his team would have to leave New York Friday night, thus allowing some other club to enjoy the week-end gate receipts. Never before has the league opened on a Tuesday, he said.

200,000 Seek Seats For Big Football Classic Of Week

PRINCETON, N. J.—Led by Johnny "Take-A-Chance" Gorman, the Princeton Tigers, the gridiron's greatest gamblers, will push everything they have to the middle of the board here tomorrow against what is generally regarded as a better hand held by Yale.

Better hands held twice before this season by Chicago and Harvard have been overcome by the reckless abandon, the wild chance taking spirit of little Gorman and his band.

In addition to being one of the established season after season classics, the battle between the Tiger and the Bull Dog tomorrow will be the best all-around event on the season card and Princeton athletic officials have come to the belief that every one in the east wants to see the game.

Applications for more than 200,000 seats were received and only by providing 5,000 extra seats in the special wooden stands at the end of the stadium, was it possible to take care of 55,744 persons.

This will be by 5,000 the largest crowd that has ever seen a game in the Palmer stadium.

The Yale squad will not work out in the stadium today. They are to arrive in Trenton shortly after noon and they will not leave there until they board an automobile caravan tomorrow for their trip to the stadium.

While no official announcements have been made, the Yale backfield is expected to consist of Neidinger, Jordan, Neil and Scott. The Tigers, no doubt, will use Gorman, Caldwell, Crum and Cleaves behind the line.

MORRIS TO FIGHT TUT JACKSON

COLUMBUS.—The Iowans arrived today for their game in Ohio stadium tomorrow with the Buckeyes.

Coach Howard Jones of the Hawkeyes said his squad, with the exception of Quarterback Leland Parker, is in prime condition. Jones took his men immediately to Ohio stadium for a short signal drill.

With all cripples, injured in Ohio's long string of defeats, back in the running, the Bucks rested today, hopeful that they may be able to make a showing in the last home game of the season.

SEEKING GAMES

First practice of the Big 11 A. C. was held at the Y. M. C. A. last night. From the way things look at present they will have a formidable team in the field this year. Those who are out are Captain Fritz Hunter, Heller, Henderson, Knisely, Poan, Cook, Katchka and Sanders.

Any Lima teams that desire games are urged to call High 327. White Stars, Pirates, Blue Jackets and others take notice.

St. Johns Five To Play Big Clash Against Decatur

First important clash of the season in which the St. Johns high school cage team of Delphos plays will be an inter-state battle. Decatur, Indiana will send over a flashy quintet Friday night for a game on the St. John's floor.

Speed uncorked in practice and in the game Tuesday night with Glandorf bears out predictions made by local critics that the team of 1922-23 will be geared higher than the successful quintet of last season which won 18 straight games without a defeat in regular contests.

Road work has been resorted to by Coach Father Burkhardt's eagerness to improve their form. The boys reel off three of four miles each day.

Stellar qualities exhibited by Ricker and Hiett, the two substitutes, make it possible for St. Johns to present an unbroken front against the opposition in event one or two of the regulars are removed because of injuries or other causes. The substitute pair have proven they can jump in and pull a game out of the fire at any time.

Assistance of Louis Justus man, has been of great help to the team. He has offered suggestions for improvement of which are invaluable.

Possibility of Imber, coming out of the game Friday cause of condition of his feet, loomed after a mummification Thursday. Hitting has been bothering several weeks. If he does Shelbyville, he probably will be center and Ricker will be forward. It is believed he will be started.

Lima White Stars will play preliminary game with the juniors. The main event at 8.

EX-GERMAN CHIEF ASKS U.S. AID

Dr. Wirth Seeks Help in the European Tangle

URGES ECONOMIC PARLEY

Duty of America to Call Congress, He Says

(BY KARL A. BICKEL)

BERLIN — (United Press) — "America must call a world economic conference. It is her duty," Dr. Joseph Wirth, former chancellor of Germany, declared in an interview today, his first since the fall of his government.

able to discuss frankly the situation within and without Germany, unhampered by diplomatic reticence which prevented many utterances during his 19 months at the helm of German affairs, Wirth's first thought was for the need of American intervention as arbiter in European affairs.

The United States, he declared, must take a decisive role in reparations settlement by naming official delegates to the commission. It must be umpire for Europe. Unless America does this, Dr. Wirth foresees after ruin and Bolshevism throughout Europe.

AMERICA PLEDGED

For himself, he said he was determined to carry on, playing a part in the recharging, somewhat similar to that of Lloyd George in the British parliament. Wirth is now a deputy.

He pointed out that the United States, thru Woodrow Wilson, was pledged to the "14 points," adding, "that it now appears that nobody in America is willing to carry out these principles."

"Who is to settle the European problem which now has become a world problem—no politicians—not Premier Poincare," Wirth continued. "America must take a hand and must be willing to deal with the problem from an economic viewpoint."

America now has two gentlemen—they are very fine gentlemen, too—on the reparations commission, but why doesn't America have official representatives? America must have official representatives, so she can play the decision role—so she can be a sort of arbitrator—an umpire."

SHOULD BE DECISIVE ROLE

At this point I interrupted Dr. Wirth with the question, whether he meant America ought to speak what the Germans call the Machtwort (might word). He replied:

"I wouldn't say that, but you can say that America should play a decisive role and be officially represented."

After a pause, he added:

"I have done my best to fulfill the Versailles treaty demands. 'Perhaps I have done too much, but there is nothing to show for it. After the London ultimatum, the allies occupied Busseldorf, Duisberg and Ruhrort. Their troops are still there. Why? When one asks, they only shrug their shoulders. 'Occupations must cease. The whole problem must be treated from an economic standpoint.'"

I asked what would happen if the United States did nothing.

"Misery and wretchedness throughout Europe will increase constantly and Europe will go to ruin," He paused reflectively and then continued:

"I had a delegation from local hospitals and clinics here a few days ago. They were very sad. They told me their institutions were being forced to close."

That is not all. Science is crumbling, universities are badly off, and the middle classes are becoming beggars. There is the situation. Our patience is not exhausted—yet, but our resources are."

NIGHT RIDES WITH GIRL

DANCERS ARE RELATED BY HOFMANN SUIT WITNESSES

Alleged night rides with girl dancers, alleged to have been taken by Walter Hofmann, manager of the pavilion at McCullough's park, were related by witnesses during the hearing of the divorce suit against Ruth C. Hofmann in common pleas court.

Persons residing near the park told of seeing Hofmann and a professional dancer leave the park in a car.

The girl was a member of a troupe giving exhibitions in Lima a year ago. Several of the party are alleged to have recently been arrested by Detroit police on larceny charges.

Judge Fred C. Becker took the case under advisement at the conclusion of the hearing.

REDUCED FARES GRANTED FOR LIVESTOCK EXHIBIT

Reduced fare is available for Altoona farmer, and others who attend the annual livestock exhibit December 2 to 9 in Chicago, according to information given out by Agent J. Knell in Delphos Friday.

Fare and a half will be charged for a round trip ticket, making the charge $10.44, instead of the customary amount, $12.22.

Scores of persons interested in the breeding of purebred livestock will attend the exhibit, it is believed.

SHIP SUBSIDY BILL TO COME UP NEXT WEEK

WASHINGTON. — The administration ship subsidy bill will be taken up in the house next week under a special rule which will throw the measure open to all amendments on the floor, Republican leaders declared today. They opened the drive to push the bill thru.

The conference between Speaker Gillett, Majority Leader Mondell, Chairman Campbell of the rules committee and members of the Republican steering committee, it was decided to discard the idea of a "tax" rule prohibition amendment because of the open opposition to it from Republican as well as Democrats.

ANGRY AT PRIEST FIRES CHURCH

UPPER SANDUSKY — (Associated Press) — Miss Nina Louise Lewis, 17-year-old school girl, charged with having set fire to Our Lady of Consolation church, the Catholic shrine at Carey, near here, several weeks ago, entered a plea of guilty when arraigned before Judge Charles F. Close here and was given an indeterminate sentence in the Marysville Reformatory.

The girl is alleged to have set fire to the church when she became angry at a priest. The blaze was extinguished before any considerable damage had been done.

COST NEAR SAME TO SMITH, TOY

Only 56 Cents Difference in Election Expense

Ed. Smith, Democrat, winner for county surveyor, spent 56 cents less than Walter R. Toy, Republican, whom he defeated, expense accounts filed by each at the board of elections, show.

Smith spent $220; Toy $220.56.

Other accounts filed Friday are those of Clarence Klinger, Democrat, for prosecuting attorney, who expended $282.50; N. W. Basinger, Democrat, loser in the race for treasurer, $186.23; W. C. Baxter, Republican, winner for state legislature, $116.20.

Dr. Frank Smith, who won out as coroner, against Dr. A. C. Adams, when ten votes in his favor lost in the shuffle were found and properly credited, spent $52. The amount is 25 per cent of his possible pay for year.

Joe Hartline, Republican, runner up in the auditor's race filed an account showing an outlay of $550.98. John T. Cotner, Democrat, defeated clerk of the courts, spent $354.50, his account shows.

FREEDOM IS NEAR

Bigamy Charge Questioned, Man's Bond Reduced

Henry Robillard, formerly of New York, Conn., was almost freed of a charge of bigamy, when examined in probate court Thursday.

As it was his bond was reduced from $1,000 to $200, which will enable him to leave the custody of Sheriff C. W. Baxter, until the grand jury convenes.

Robillard was arrested by police in an address in Bellefontaine, in company with Mrs. Nellie Clark, his housekeeper. Bigamy was charged, and the defendants held to the Allen co grand jury.

Thursday Robillard was brought before Judge J. H. Hamilton in probate court to determine on what grounds he was held.

"This is not a bigamy case," declared the court. "There may be grounds for adultery, but I find nothing to show proof of bigamy."

Nevertheless Judge Hamilton declined to free Robillard, but lowered his bond to a more reasonable amount.

BUZZING IN EARS DISAPPEARS

Lima Lady Says Plant Juice Has Greatly Relieved Her Catarrhal Trouble

LIKE A DIFFERENT WOMAN

"I suffered from such bad catarrh in my head that I had a buzzing sound in my ears nearly all the time, but your Plant Juice has worked wonders for me and the catarrh is so much relieved that the buzzing sound has left my ears."

MRS. SADIE GRAHAM

This remarkable testimonial was given to The Plant Juice Man recently by Mrs. Sadie Graham, a popular and well known lady of this city, living at 235 1/2 North Central avenue. Continuing, she said:

"I had suffered from catarrh in my head and throat for years. It made my breath so foul I did not sit near anybody. I also suffered from a terrible nervous condition so that I could not sleep right, and often through the day I had such dizzy spells that I could hardly sit or stand up. I couldn't eat right and simply had pains all through my body."

"I read about your Plant Juice and finally I started taking it and I will say that it worked wonders for me. That buzzing sound has left my ears and the catarrh is improved so much that my throat does not fill up anymore. I can now eat and sleep fine; the pains have left my body and, to tell the truth, I feel like a different woman. I surely want to recommend your Plant Juice to the public for it is a wonderful medicine."

Said The Plant Juice Man: "Catarrh is a terrible thing. It should not be considered lightly. In the beginning, it may be a simple condition but it grows worse rapidly until there is a constant roaring, ringing or buzzing in the ears and head; mucous continually fills up the air passages of the nose and throat; there are awful headaches, eyes grow weak and, eventually, the catarrh may spread throughout the system, affecting the stomach, liver and kidneys. My Plant Juice has given blessed relief in many cases of this trouble."

The Plant Juice Man is at Hunter's drug store, 49 Public Square, Lima, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

Plant Juice is sold also in Lima at Hunter's drug store at Main and Wayne streets and at the Argonne drug store, opposite Post Office.

TURKISH SULTAN FLEES FOR LIFE

Leaves Constantinople on British Warship for Malta

STILL CLINGS TO THRONE

Removing Himself from Immediate Danger, He Says

CONSTANTINOPLE — (Associated Press) — Mohammed VI, the Turkish sultan has fled from Constantinople on a British warship bound for Malta.

Upon embarking the sultan emphasized that he was not abdicating but merely removing himself from immediate danger.

The sultan wrote to Lieutenant General Harington, the British commander-in-chief, on Wednesday evening, stating he considered his life to be in danger and would like British protection.

The sultan has been greatly exercised over his status since the action of the Turkish Nationalist assembly at Angora early this month voting to deprive him of his civil authority and declaring the caliph would hereafter be selected from the imperial house by vote of the Grand National Assembly.

POLITICAL MOTIVES

There have been rumors that he had abdicated or was about to do so but there has been no official confirmation of any such action on his part. Political motives may be read in some quarters into the flight of the sultan on a British warship. Great Britain conceded his strong motives for seeing that no harm comes to the caliph. In view of the many millions of Mosulman subjects within her domain, many of whom are depending on the power of the Turks alone to take action affecting all Islam. The question of the sultan's status too is likely to come up at the Lausanne conference about to open and it now appears probable that when this question is being debated the caliph himself will be under British protection.

SHORT SHAVINGS

Marshal Sam Lane has an alibi which follows him about in his official duties at Westerville, Ohio. Bud is the dog's name. He is willing but not very smart. Marshal Lane was clearing out the town hall and the dog kept getting in his way. So he locked the dog up in a cell on a charge of interfering with an officer in the performance of his duties. Lane says this should be a good lesson for Bud.

Hob Edwards of Delphos, climbed to the roof of his house with a broom to sweep the leaves out of the eaves trough. He saw a neighbor out in his yard on the next street and waved the broom to attract his attention. He waved so hard he waved himself off the roof into a blue bush. His wife said, "That should teach you to attend to what you are doing and not to wave the broom the next time you climb out on the roof to sweep the leaves out of the trough." Henry said, "Never mind that. There isn't going to be any next time."

Billy Wanstead traveling salesman, spent several weeks building a brand some come body on his six cylinder car and finally completed it at a cost of $3000. He was proud of the result until he chanced to overhear the dialog between a man and a woman who stopped to admire it. "Oh-o-oh look!" exclaimed the woman, "Isn't that a swell-looking flivver?" "Sure is," agreed the man. "But somehow you just can't disguise a flivver."

Indiana Manufacturer Suffered With Bladder Trouble for Years. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) Made Him Well

No one need suffer the pain and annoyance of bladder trouble, getting up many times each night. C. F. Molcher, Vasey, Ind., manufacturer, says: "I took Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula) in April and have been waiting until August to see if the good results were going to be permanent. I am confident I am O. K. In fact, I feel as well as ever. Before I took Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula) I had to get up two to four times every hour at night and was bothered nearly as much in daytime. It got so bad I could not go any place to visit or to work, for I had no control of my bladder. I am all right now and have no trouble at all. I will be glad to tell any sufferer what Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula) did for me." Sufferers from bladder troubles will be surprised at the impurities passed after a few doses of Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula). These impurities cause the bladder trouble. This is not a patent medicine. The formula is printed on the package. It acts on the kidneys and bladder similarly as do Epsom Salts on the bowels. Try a few doses for frequent desire at night, scalding, scanty or high-colored urine. Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula) is not a cheap medicine. They cost 25¢ each and contain several drugs which are useful for relief of this trouble. Learn all about Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula) at Hunters' 3 Stores, and drug stores everywhere, or write The Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, O.

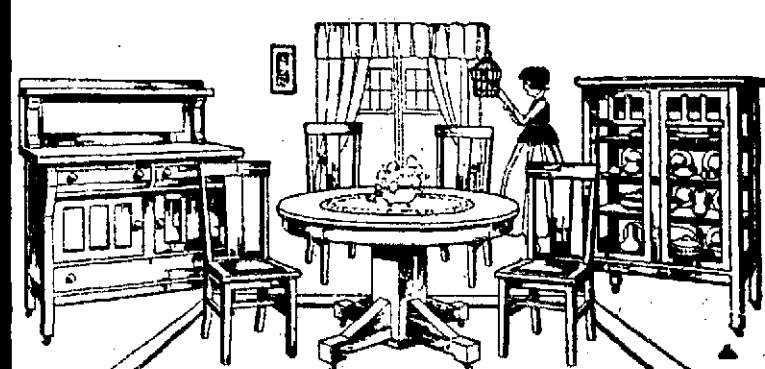

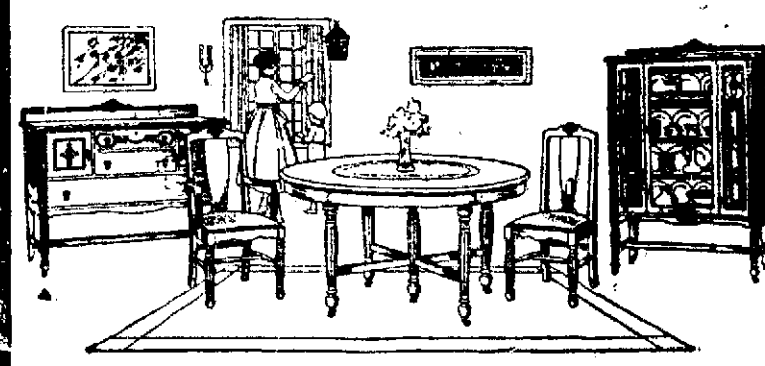

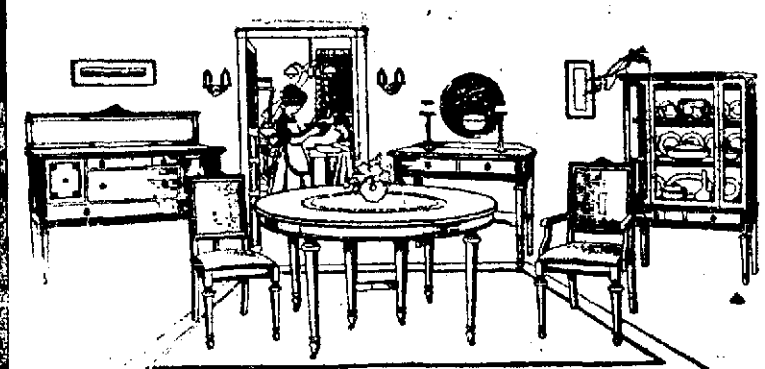

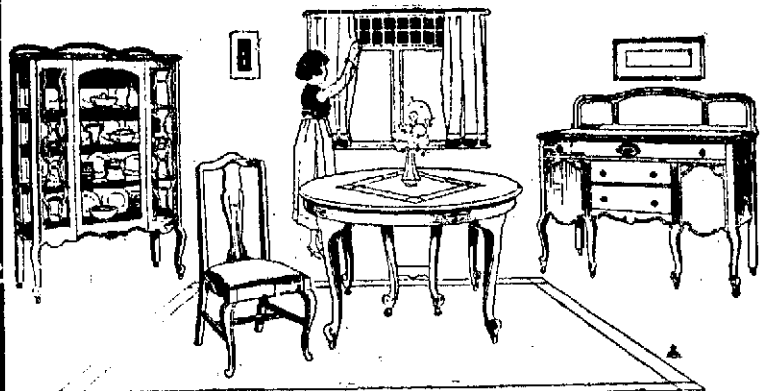

NO OLD WOMEN NOWDAYS

Modern dress, hair dressers, facial experts and cosmetics all combine to keep women of all ages young and attractive in appearance. Not until the telltale wrinkles become so deep, the figures stoops, or some ailment or weakness develops to drag a woman down does she really look her age. Every woman owes it to herself and her family, to keep herself young in appearance, and happy. When headaches, backache or "the blues" develop or when a woman reaches the trying age from forty-five to fifty, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be depended upon to keep her in health as 't has so many other women whose letters we are continually publishing in this paper. —Adv.
